ONE KILLING CORROBORATED

Slaying of Denver Detective Said in BOISE, Idaho, June 7.—Following Orchard's graphic story of the killing of the late Governor Steunenberg, the defense took him on cross examination last evening, continuing at the opening of court this morning. The witness is answering most of the questions without hesitation, and the defense has not been able to materially damage his testimony.

100 More Witnesses
The defense is disappointed because of the extraneous matter of which Orchard was permitted to testify. Haywood's lawyer had subpoenaed only about thirty witnesses, and will now be compelled to call one hundred more from points at which Orchard has sworn he committed depredations.

At the opening this morning Richardson resumed his grilling cross examination, the attorneys engaging in frequent wrangles. The witness was questioned at length upon the destruction of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine at Wardner. He stuck pretty close to the story he originally told.

Didn't Know Associates.

However, Orchard couldn't explain how, although he drove a milk wagon, and gambled nightly in the saloons, he knew the names of only a half dozen of nearly 100 men who aided in blowing up the Wardner mines. For over an hour the tale was uninteresting, the audience apparently being interested only in gambling experiences. Orchard said he would work several months and save his money, then gamble and go broke in a few days, after which he would go back to work. At one point Hawley's objection to Richardson's method of questioning was sustained. Hawley called it argumentative questioning. Richardson tried to show it was proper, but the court told him curtly to go on with the examination. Richardson took exception.

One Murder Corroborated

During the trial this morning the prosecution received a telegram from Denver saying there is a witness there who saw the killing of Lyte and Gregory, confirming Orchard's story.

Breathless Moments

UNSPEAKABLE STUFF

Mrs. Gould's Attorney Shrinks From Discussing Charges

NEW YORK, June 7.—The alleged "scandalous and irrelevant" accusations which Howard Gould sought in court yesterday to have stricken from her complaint are as follows: "That, during the years 1904, 1905, 1906 and down to the commencement of this action, defendant maintained illicit and immoral relations with divers women of bad character, and conducted himself in this respect so openly and notoriously as to insult, humiliate, and bring shame and contumely upon this plaintiff."

In replying to Mr. Nicolli's arguments, Clarence Shearn, counsel for Mrs. Gould, said if the defense would ask for a bill of particulars specific charges would be made of so serious a character that he would not presume to mention them in court in the course of his argument.

STANDARD OIL LOST

Trust Must Bare Its Entire Record at St. Paul

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 7.—The federal court this morning decided against Standard Oil, ordering the trust to answer on the first Monday in July, all the allegations in the government bill to which the trust objected in its bill of exceptions. This means that the entire history of Standard Oil will be reviewed in court. The trust contended that the state had no right to go into facts prior to the reorganization in 1899.

DRAGO DOCTRINE IS APT TO PREVAIL

UNCLE SAM AND LATIN STATES FAVOR IT

WILL COME UP AT THE HAGUE

Policy of Declaring That Warships Shall Not Collect Debts to Defeat Frauds

(By J. C. Welliver.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 7.—(Special.)—Those persons that have been exercised lest the course taken by the United States in Santo Domingo prove a dangerous and expensive precedent appear to have little basis for worry, if the views of persons familiar with the diplomatic relations between this country and Latin America are to be believed. Not only has the Santo Domingo situation been settled in a satisfactory way, agreeable to this country and Santo Domingo as well as the foreign countries interested, but it is unlikely that the Santo Domingo problem will ever be duplicated so far as the United States is concerned.

All the indications now are that the coming Hague conference will agree to the Drago doctrine. Secretary Root is thoroughly in favor of this doctrine and the American delegates to the Hague conference will support it to the utmost of their ability.

The delegates from Latin America, likewise, will give the doctrine their cordial support. The belief here is that the Hague conference will accept this doctrine as a part of those accepted doctrines of international relations that constitute international law.

A Beneficial Doctrine.

In state department and diplomatic circles it is pointed out that the effect of the adoption of the Drago doctrine will be of great importance. Just as soon as it is known that the navies and armies of nations are not to be employed to collect debts contracted for by the weak South American republics or their citizens, just as soon will moneyed adventurers stop making investments in Latin America except in legitimate propositions. There will be no financing of questionable deals and concessions on the basis of an enormous anticipated profit that could not be made legitimately and is possible only on the understanding that the foreign nation to which the creditor belongs will back him up with force in collecting what his contract shows is due him. Not alone will the adoption of the Drago doctrine operate to discourage adventurous financiers who are willing to gamble in Latin American investments of a doubtful sort but it will have a tendency to make the Latin American governments more careful to sanction only those investments of foreign capital that are based on sound business prospects. It is the belief of the men who are best informed on the subject here that the tendency on the whole of the adoption of the Drago doctrine on the Latin American countries will be to encourage improvements of an up-to-date sort in cities and towns and the general upbuilding of the countries through betterments that depend for their returns on nothing so precarious as the willingness of the

UTILITY BILL PASSES; REID BILL ADVANCES

MADISON, Wis., June 7.—(Special.)—By a vote of 77 to 10 the assembly today passed the public utility bill.

The senate by a unanimous vote advanced the Owens bill to create a state waterway commission for a term of three years. The amount appropriated will be $5,000 per year. This is a victory for La Crosse and other river towns, and for Judge Ray S. Reid, secretary of the La Crosse board of trade.

That the Owens, or Reid, bill will become a law, probably without a dissenting vote in either house, is now regarded as a certainty. Its advancement today was under suspension of the rules, and it is believed that it will come up for final passage not later than next Wednesday.

HOW TO FIND WHO'S WHO BABE

- Trempealeau, Wis., June 7, '07, Editor Tribune:
- I see in your paper of yesterday an account of a difficulty between two Iowa mothers who think their babies have been exchanged, but are not sure that it is so. Why don't they let the youngsters decide for themselves? If any woman picks up a baby of from two months to a year old, just after the child has awakened from sleep, the little one will lift up its face and smell of the one holding it, and if that is its own mother, it will nestle down contentedly, but if not, it will turn its little nose and if not, it will turn its little nose and if not, it will turn its little nose to such small people, and which an observant person, especially a mother, can readily see.
- Please suggest this to Mesdames Loeftberger and Wellenden and then they will see which is "Chris" and which is "Hans." You can't fool the babies.
- Observingly yours,
- E. H. C.
- A marked copy of this edition has been ordered sent to the embarrassed mothers.

Women Want No Imitation Legs in Show Windows

OMAHA, June 7.—The Omaha board of fire and police has been asked to take official cognizance of the imitation legs which adorn the show windows of the large department stores of the city, and over which are drawn many styles of women's delicate hosiery. The request comes to the board from a self-constituted committee of the Woman's club, although that organization has not taken official notice of the matter. Mayor Dahlman, who is chairman of the board, does not think the displays are in any way offensive.

LIVED ON COPPER MINE, UNKNOWNING

BOY THEN GOES WEST AND RECOGNIZES ORE

RETURNS TO MINE OLD FARM

Harmon Martin Brings Old Colorado Miner to Viola and Ore Will Pay $400 to $500 Per Ton

After living from childhood on his father's farm near Viola, and idly handling pieces of copper ore as mere stones, Melvin Martin, son of Harmon Martin, went to Colorado to make his fortune. There he saw miners discussing ores, and handling specimens of copper. Today he is searching the old farm which is, it is announced, one of the richest copper mines in the northwest.

Young Martin interested John Morrison of Pueblo, Custer county, Colo., in his story of copper on his father's farm and the veteran miner accompanied the young man back to Wisconsin.

Investigation proved there were better specimens of copper around his mother's flower bed in the front yard than the Colorado miners had been raving over. The farm is in the town of Bloom.

From investigations made already ore paying between $400 and $500 per ton is in abundance and the ground has not been dug up at all as yet. The copper ore found shows the copper running into hematite of iron formation.

JAPS RUN "SANDY"

Indications Are Courtesy Is Interpreted as Fear

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 7.—There is beginning to be manifested here a distinct feeling of irritation against an apparent disposition on the part of certain people in Japan to magnify molehills into mountains and to persist in an endeavor to precipitate trouble between this country and Japan. The trouble complained of consisted in extremely minor strike incidents.

Japs Misconstrue Attitude.

There is a growing belief that the Japanese at home and abroad have misconstrued the attitude of the federal government. Courtesy and consideration for a friendly nation induced the president and secretary of state to go infinitely farther than they would have gone had a European country been involved. Apparently the Japanese have interpreted this as weakness or even as fear on the part of the United States.

Want Punishment Given.

TOKIO, June 7.—The leading papers here whose opinions are worth quoting are silent on the question of demanding an indemnity for the so-called bombardment of Japanese establishments in San Francisco.

Reparation for the damage inflicted and punishment for the culprits is expected, and it is believed that the government is taking proper steps in the matter.

It is true, however, that popular indignation has reached a degree never before witnessed in the history of Japan's relations with the United States. It is thought by influential Japanese that the quicker the facts regarding the negotiations now in progress here and in Washington are published, the better it will be for all concerned.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 7.—Reports from Kansas this morning say the crop condition is only 52.3. May frosts having lowered it from the government estimate of May 1st of 52. It is indicated that the crop will be only about forty million whereas the normal is over eighty million.

BEAUTIFUL GIRL IS FOUND MURDERED IN N. W. YARDS AT MILWAUKEE TODAY

HUGE ALIGATOR SCARES FARMERS

ON OLD SEEBERGER FARM AT HEAD OF DUTCH CREEK

SEEN BY HALF DOZEN PEOPLE

Mother, Two Daughters and Two Sons of Spurgeon Bright Scared
by Appearance of Reptile

An alligator, said to be between six and seven feet long has been seen on the old Seeberger farm, near the mouth of Half Way creek. The farm was sold this spring by J. M. Craig, formerly of Avon street on the North side, to Spurgeon Bright, who now operates the place.

A few days ago the mother of Mr. Bright, a former resident of La Crosse, was sitting upon the bang of the creek shing, when the monster made its appearance, and so frightened the woman that she beat a hasty retreat to the house and told of her experience.

Her story was regarded as a huge joke until a short time after when Mr. Bright's daughters, Grace and Blanche, aged 17 and 15 years, respectively, were near the river bank and they also saw the animal. They it is from six to seven feet long. Their two younger brothers, who are between 10 and 12 years of age, have also seen it, and they say that it has appeared several times.

On the first occasion they were wading in the stream spearing carp above the water and badly frightened them.

Residents of that vicinity will try to capture the reptile.

HE FEELS NO SLIGHT

Crocker Not Offended Because He Was Not Invited

LONDON, June 7.—There is a disposition among certain sections of the press with yellow proclivities to interpret Richard Crocker's failure to receive an invitation to the king's derby dinner last night as a direct royal snub. Such a contention is without foundation.

The king's dinner essentially is given to friends and fellow members of the Jockey club. Crocker himself does not regard his not being invited as a slight.

Norman Mack said tonight that Crocker never expected to be invited, and would not have gone if he had been. Crocker has not been present at court, and he is not an intimate of the king.

SAILS OVER BOSTON

But Cub Aeronaut Finally Falls in Bay

BOSTON, Mass., June 7.—Boston looked up this afternoon and saw, sailing high over the buildings in the center of the city, its first airship. The craft appeared to be heading northward, and there was a rush of many thousands in the direction it was going.

It descended on the common, and there its navigator was learned to be Lincoln Beachey, 20 years old. Beachey had come from Revere beach, seven miles away, in twenty-eight minutes.

The trip had been smooth sailing, but Beachey had less luck on the return journey, and after several close calls he wound up in the waters of the harbor. He was picked up by a boat.

MYSTERY HIDES AN AWFUL CRIME

GIRLS HEAD WAS SEVERED AND BODY THROWN ON TRACK

POLICE ARE QUITE MYSTIFIED

No Clue Points to Solution of Strange
Case and Coroner and Officials
Search in Vain.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 7.—(Special.)—Mystery surrounds the finding here today of a beautiful girl, not more than 20 years old, who with decapitated head was discovered by a train crew on the Northwestern, near the Folsom street viaduct.

The girl's head was completely severed from her body. She had evidently been murdered and carried to the tracks in the hope that she would be mangled by a train.

The girl was five feet four inches tall, with light brown hair. She was neatly dressed in a black skirt and black shirtwaist trimmed in white lace. A black and white hat trimmed with red roses was found near the body.

On one of the girl's fingers was a ring. It had originally contained three stones, but one of them was missing.

The coroner took charge of the body, and a vigorous police investigation has been begun, but there is no clue so far and the department is at sea.

ENTIRELY FIRE PROOF

Torrance Gets Materials for Michel Building

William Torrance has returned from Chicago where he has been purchasing supplies for the construction of the new Michel Brewing plant. The contract for the structural work in the plant was awarded to Torrance and Son last week. The building is to be entirely of fireproof materials, not a stick of wood going into it.

Mr. Torrance closed contracts for 400 tons of structural iron and 150 tons of cast iron, which will be used in the work. Car loads of the iron have already begun to arrive here, and the casting has commenced at the Torrance plant which is now running overtime with the work. Mr. Torrance expects to complete his contract before the middle of September.

Sixty-five tons of structural iron for the Tomah Mercantile company's building at Tomah arrived today, and work has been commenced on the building.

DEATH FOR ONE KISS

That Is What Ottumwa Negro Nearly Got

OTTUMWA, Ia., June 7.—A lynching almost took place in this city today following an insult to Mrs. Edward McBride, a white woman, by Sherman Phillips, a negro, who grabbed her and forced her to kiss him before he would release her. The husband promises to kill Phillips on sight. The woman's own strength and courage saved her. Even a big knife which the man drew and opened, drawing the back of the blade across her throat, failed to daunt her.

(By Lefty.)
The wonderful feat of pitching a no hit, no run game, was accomplished at League park yesterday afternoon by Pitcher Darrah of Freeport, the ex-Dubuque twirler who was secured by the Pretzels this spring in a trade for Barlow. It was a masterful exhibition and the second no-hit game of the season pitched in the league. Lang of Wausau pulling off the stunt a couple of weeks ago. Needless it is to say that Freeport won the last game, but at that it took all their energy, the score being 1 to 0. Jones was also in fine form.

Darrah deserves all the credit for a great victory, the big fellow having the champs completely at his mercy
at all stages and nothing that resembled a safe drive was sent off his delivery. Only two men reached the first sack, Eddy Konetchy making it when he knocked a little bouncer to Darrah and Elde let the throw get through him. The other was Killian who drew the only pass. As inning after inning went by and the champs failed to get a hit it was thought that the next would surely change the complexion of things, but from the first inning to the last Darrah kept up his strong stride and retired Hawley's men in regular order. He had plenty of speed and used good judgment, and although his support had nothing heavy to handle, it backed him up in fine shape. Only four balls were knocked to the outfield by the champs.

Was a Battle

For all of the fact that Darrah
was in such great form the Pretzels had a hard time winning. Jones performed in his usual manner, and although touched up for seven singles he kept these well scattered, with the exception of the sixth inning when the lone score was tallied. At that he would have likely retired the side without a run, but for "Daddy" Cahill letting a hit get through him.
With one out Ireland led off with a single to center and stole second base. Fiske followed with another drive to center. Cahill came in hard for the ball to head the runner off at the plate, and in doing so let it get through him, Ireland reaching and platter. This was the end of it as Gwinn and Schoonhoven were retired.

Jones picked himself out of some bad holes, however, pitching the stronger in these instances. In the third and the fourth innings Freeport had men on the third sack, but could not score them.

The fielding of both teams was the nicest seen on the grounds this season.

good one, but the fact remains that the fans do not treat the umpires right. I have had my fill and will go back to the playing game. There is transportation awaiting me now at Fond du Lac for some city in the north, where I will play."

Sanders tried out this year as a pitcher, but threw his arm out and it is just getting right again.

Gruebner Jumps.
The story of Louie Gruebner, captain of the Madison team, leaving the club, has been learned. Louie jumped the team here Monday night.
He went to Manager Cassibone and wanted to get some money. He was refused. After much wrangling Louie said he would leave the team if he did not get it. He did not get it and carried out his threat, leaving that night for Milwaukee in company with some friends.

THE DOPE BOX

Today the champs open at Madison, meeting Cassibone's men in three games.

It was too bad that Darrah could not have equalled the pitching record of no hits, no runs, or anyone getting to first base. The error of Elde was inexcusable while the base on balls by Darrah was purely accidental.

Warhop did not pitch the game as he was taken sick and had to go home. A number of the Freeport boys say they have been sick, blaming their condition to La Crosse water. Umpire Sanders was affected the same, this keeping him out of the game Wednesday.

Darrah's feat was made all the more remarkable from the fact that he was pitching against a seasoned team like La Crosse, twice champions and at present leading the league.

Aside from the game the real interest was centered in a fan in the grandstand. This fan, one of those large round faced, good natured fellows, arose before the assembled and stated in clear tones that he was for Freeport. He showed he was by the way he roared and wag-ered his money.

It looked for a minute as though Vogt, the last man up in the ninth was going to spoil Darrah's record.
"Dutch" driving a hot one down by short. Fiske made a nice stop and throw and the game was over.

Fiske had an awful busy day at short, collecting eight chances without a bungle. Elde had seventeen putouts.

Considerable money changed hands on the game. Freeport greenbacks were in evidence early, but La Crosse fans were not slow in accepting the overtures for bets.

Yesterday's game was the first that Jones has lost this season, but it took such an exhibition of pitching as Darrah's to beat the little giant. Jones won seven straight games up to Thursday.

Every game played in the Wisconsin state league yesterday was close and exciting, three of the contests being shutouts and the other a 3 to 1 score.

Now another one of Moll's staff of "star" umpires has gone wrong. Anderson, who reported at Wausau and worked in the last series against Oshkosh, is not spoken of kindly.

Real baseball fans exist in Fond du Lac if reports received from that city are true. Although Letcher's team is holding down the cellar position the fans still have faith that by the end of this month the club will be up by the top.

Catcher Klebs has been released by Green Bay. The big fellow wanted to get on with the Champs, but has been gobbled up by Fond du Lac.

Calgary, Alta. up in the Canadian league, has written to President Eliott of the La Crosse association, stating that two pitchers, a second baseman and a shortstop are needed.
Lethbridge, in the same league, also writes, saying that a pitcher and two infielders are needed.

We always do a big business

we presume, most men figure on their vacation about that time.

SEMI-PROS WANT GAMES

Extend Time of Getting Within Limit to June 10 to Give Teams Time to Strengthen Up

President Moll of the state league has finally reached the conclusion that drastic steps must be taken to enforce discipline in the organization.
A communication was received by President Elliott of the La Crosse association this morning from Mr. Moll giving the information. Mr. Moll states that any player hereafter who rushes up to an umpire and pushes him, or in any way violates the rules in this respect, will be fined $25 and suspended for fifteen or thirty days.
He says that discipline must be enforced.

Want Games Here
The Winona Schellhas baseball team has written to the local association asking for a game on some open date. The Colored Gophers of Minneapolis also want a date.

Extend the Limit
President Moll has decided to extend the wedding out season to June 10, to give some of the clubs the opportunity of strengthening their teams. The rules of the league say that the clubs shall be down to the twelve men limit by June 1. This new edict will be of much benefit to all teams.

times it seems ironical.

LA FOLLETTE FOR PRESIDENT

(New Lisbon Times.)

The editor of the Times has for many years been an ardent admirer of Robert M. La Follette, now senior United States senator in the national legislature, from Wisconsin. We had many personal interviews with Mr.
La Follette while he was governor of this state and we earnestly believed in his sincerity. We helped fight his battles because the cause
he espoused was the people's cause and in the interest of representative government. He was then called a sham and pretender by the hireling press of the "system."

None of them have the temerity
now to say such base things of him.
The "highbinder" statesmen who sought the downfall of Mr. La Follette have many of them gone to political graves. The people's eyes were opened and they saw in the right light. They placed their faith in La Follette and that faith was well founded. He led the way to most remarkable reforms in Wisconsin.
During his brief career in the United States senate he has paved the way for great reforms of a national character. Mock senatorial courtesy has been scattered to the four winds of heaven, and "precedent" in the "house of lords" has been smashed to smithereens by the strong, able and indisputable arguments of Wisconsin's favorite son. He shook up the old dry bones in the senate and awakened them to the new era of things and made them sit up and listen to the throbbing of the public pulse. At first some raved and sputtered in abhorrence at the new modus operandi, but they very quickly saw that the people were listening. They dared not go up against public sentiment, and it was not long before they were voting for La Follette measures. Those who will stick to their old policy of "the public be damned," are fast losing prestige and one by one their seats are being filled by true representatives of the people.
Thus it was that the name of La Follette became a household word throughout the nation. He is a leader of reform in this country, and the most promising of them all. Everywhere throughout the union he is talked of as a presidential possibility.
We believe he ought to succeed Roosevelt. We believe the rank and file of this great country will pin their faith to him. Wisconsin will surely give him a solid delegation to the next republican national convention.

As a rule, when a man complains a good deal about his ailments, they don't amount to much, when something really serious gets the matter with him he becomes hopeful.

Uncle Sam is going to raise the price of envelopes. The price of paper has soared so of late that he is compelled to take this step.

On July 1 the price of stamped envelopes will be raised 4 cents for

July 1 no orders will be filled for envelopes which bear on the upper

Uncle Sam's envelope station is to

1 from Hartford, Conn., to Dayton,

SESSIONS ON RIVER

Plan of Travelers to Hold Meetings on Boat

If the National Military Traveling Men's association, now in session at Des Moines, adopts the scheme proposed by George L. Kraft, president of Post D, of that city, one of the most novel conventions ever held by any organization in the United States will be that of the association at its 1908 session.

There promised to be a merry war over the selection of the next place of meeting, and in order to obviate that and at the same time propose something unique, Kraft suggests that the association charter a large Mississippi river excursion steamer at St. Paul and make the trip to New Orleans.

The steamer will start at St. Paul with as many members as can be secured there and pick up other delegates at various cities enroute, including La Crosse. The boat will reach St. Paul the day before the date fixed for the convention, take aboard other delegates and then resume the trip, sessions of the convention being held enroute and all business transacted

UNDESIRABLE CITIZENS

The world reads with shocked concern the testimony of the unnatural creature who with unconscious deliberation is recounting the details of his hundred murders as unconcerned as the average man would relate the facts concerning the most usual and innocuous of life's affairs. Orchard, the terrible! Orchard, the disgustingly brutal! Orchard, the impossible monstrosity!

But there may be others. It is beginning to dawn upon people that, in calling the Haywood-Moyer-Pettibone crowd "undesirable citizens," President Roosevelt was not the incautious meddler with the rights of possibly innocent men many of us thought him. When it is recalled that the president was aware of the evidence that had been amassed against these men, it is not at all wonderful that his resentment should have so blinded him to the technical impropriety of his criticism as to make possible an utterance which, if the evidence is believable, is not likely to be felt as even a slight influence in the deliberations of the jury.

Orchard, the brute, the cruel tool of organized crime, is not in the same class of scoundrels composed of those who furnished the devilish ingenuity to make efficient his vicious penchant for slaughter. They who conceived and financed these crimes, they whose intelligence devised and fathered the wholesale murders of that region of terror, they who by training and environment should have been men of character—they even more than the stunted-souled carnal-minded Orchard are demons of Satan's own pride. "Undesirable citizens," indeed! What countless apologies are due Theodore Roosevelt!

This, of course, is all on the evidence of a confessed assassin of the most disgusting type. It may be a "yarn" made out of whole cloth. However, there is about the whole situation an atmosphere of probability that lends color to the story, and the absolute certainty of the state officials that they will be able to substantiate the story, especially in view of the ample opportunity for corroboration by tracing the thread back to the facts surrounding each particular crime, makes for a deep conviction of the narrative's substantial accuracy.

It is not likely that, in the whole United States, there are a score of union men, real workers, who will sympathize with this carnival of crime. Any who do can well feel that fortune is kind if they escape with the casual observation that they are "undesirable citizens."

The public utility bill, it seems, is to pass as offered in the substitute by a tremendous majority. It may not be a perfect law, but its proponents claim for it that it is the most nearly perfect of any that is

In force. This may be a too optimistic view, but as a whole the measure is doubtless one of great merit, and if it has defects, one need not feel discouraged in view of the fact that it is always subject to amendment. Nothing could be more complimentary to the people of this state than the fact that a drastic law affecting public service companies can be passed without material opposition.

SALOON LAWS UNSATISFACTORY

The outcome of the case of the saloonist tried for selling to minors yesterday again supports the assertion recently made by THE TRIBUNE that the laws are wrong. The law providing an obligatory cancellation of license for a first offense should be revised to make it a second or third offense, so that in case of unintentional guilt a saloon proprietor can plead guilty if he chooses without jeopardizing his entire business. The laws of evidence should be so amended as to permit of other means of securing the evidence required to support a conviction, for so long as the law makes essential the methods which Rev. Etzelmueller and his associates have been compelled to follow, juries will be prejudiced, and conviction will be impossible. The purpose of the law is to penalize and restrain the habitually guilty, not to trap bar owners into doing unlawful acts. The law is so written as to compel the latter course, and the element of strategy prejudices the case of the state. We believe there is not, we hope there is not, a man who holds up his head in decent society in La Crosse who does not want to see the rule against the sale of liquor to minors rigidly enforced, yet the police department and the court records are prolific of incidents wherein conviction has failed because of the unsatisfactory nature of the law. La Crosse licenses saloons, thereby recognizing them as legitimate business institutions. Its people do not favor saloon baiting. Citizens, notably among them the clean saloonkeepers, want the decency that is the standard of the best saloons enforced. The man who caters to boy trade in liquor vending is not entitled to a permit to do business, for he is a detriment to society. In the cases that have been tried, under the rules of evidence in vogue, there was no possibility of showing the general practices of the men on trial. There was evidence that a technical violation of the law had resulted from the subterfuge adopted by the complainant. Further than that the state was not permitted to extend its proofs, and the jury had to act on the meager evidence allowed. The whole method is unsatisfactory and unjust. The state attorney should be given greater latitude so that his inquiry might extend to the disclosure of all facts relating to the defendant's general practices with regard to selling to minors. As at present applied the law of evidence provides a certain evasion of the penalties of the liquor law.

AN UNFORTUNATE ACCIDENT

The unfortunate accident experienced by Mr. Andrew Boyd is not more distressing than the news that his hurts are more painful than serious is reassuring.

It is peculiarly regrettable that Mr. Boyd should have met with a mishap at this time, when his support of the enterprise for the creation of a suitable public market is so much needed. It was his own conception, and to it his experience has lent valuable aid. It is sincerely hoped that his hurts will not long detain him from the task of assisting in pushing the valuable project to success.

It hasn't seemed like the same happy home since the bell stags left the lodge. Some old, familiar antlers will be hugely welcomed in the old haunts this evening.

JUST LIFE

Where Journalism Prospers

Through the courtesy of F. C. Farmer, who is now completing a trip around the world on his way home from China, we have received a copy of the Straits Echo, a daily newspaper published at Penang, a town whose location we have forgotten since we studied "Jogerty," but which is situated somewhere south of Phun-pin and between Borneo and Nagapatnam. It is a newsy sheet, containing about three times as many columns of well paying advertisements as there is of other news. The subscription price is $24 per annum, and as we fail to find an item intimating that the editor needed stove wood, we presume it is a paying proposition. Mr. Farmer mailed the paper at Ceylon, and it required a six cent stamp. As Mr. Farmer positively stopped at different points in Europe it may be some time yet before he gets back to the states and to his many friends in Jackson county.—Jackson County Journal.

Mr. Foxy Quiller

A sleuth in "Northwest Mabel," corresponding for the Preston Times, reveals the following "discovery" of the duplicity of the home Merchant Boom: "Say you fellows who seem to go nearly crazy in advocating home industry, do you think for a moment that we the common people as a rule are regular fools and numb-skulls? In all these years of our experience in dealing with both home merchants and catalogues, don't you think that we have begun to get our blinkers open to the true situation? What's the use of your trying to give us instructions as to what we should do in the matter? You must think that we the common people are a lot of infernal cusses who doesn't know what is to their best interests. You shout and yell, 'Patronize home industry,' etc., and then you look slyly wise and then you wink the other eye. We will certainly patronize 'home industry' as long as that industry is conducted in an honest and equitable manner. But when 'home industry' is incapable of competing with catalogue houses how can you expect continued patronage. Our mail order houses are alright in the place and if it were not for them our local home merchants would be charging much more for their wares. You keep up this agitation against mail order houses and discriminate as to purchasing goods abroad until we farmers will get together and start to store-keeping on the co-operative plan then the store keepers can stop their agitation and rest. The Mabel Record is a sort of a self-appointed champion for the interest of local merchants and that is alright to try to boom up local industry. But when it tries to instruct us farmers as to where we should buy our goods it simply antagonizes us and sort of insinuates that we are too dull and stupid to know where our best interest are located. We really smile when we read the rantings of these (hired or otherwise) agitators. Don't you think we know?"

W. V. K.

"BILL" AND YALE.

(Harper's Weekly.)

Why is it that they all call him "Bill," and that all the Yale men of his time, even those whose political and economic principles are usually correct and dominant, expect to vote for him if he shall be nominated? One day when he was holding court in Cincinnati, a Yale man of his time entered for the purpose of feasting his eyes on His Bigness, and to see how he did it. But the judge saw him too, and almost at once adjourned court for the day. An officer of the court was sent to invite the disappointed Yale man into the judge's room, where the disappointment was cleared away by the characteristic remark: "I'm glad to see you, Jim; I've adjourned court. I can't waste the day holding court when I can spend it with you." Perhaps some who had read this will say that they don't wonder why Yale men, etc., etc., etc., while others may remark upon the looseness of Yale's principles. Others, again, may say it is not a true story, and very likely it isn't.

700,000,000,000 FEET OF TIMBER

(Outing Magazine.)

Every person in the United States is using over six times as much wood as he would use if he were in Europe. The country as a whole consumes every year between three and four times as much wood as all of the forests of the United States grow in the meantime. The average acre of forest lays up a store of only 10 cubic feet annually, whereas it ought to be laying up at least 30 cubic feet in order to furnish the products taken out of it. Since 1880 more than 700,000,000,000 feet of timber have been cut for lumber alone, including 80,000,000,000 feet of coniferous timber in excess of the total coniferous stumpage estimate of the census of 1880.

Slow Travel

On some of the American railways they attach a passenger car to a freight train and call it "mixed." It isn't in the order of things that such trains should travel very rapidly, and sometimes there is considerable growling among the "traffic."

"Are we most there, conductor?" asked a nervous man for the hundredth time. "Remember my wife is ill, and I am anxious."

"We'll get there on time," replied the conductor stolidly.

Half an hour later the nervous man approached him again.

"I guess she's dead now," said he mournfully, "but I'd give you a little something extra if you could manage to catch up with the funeral. Maybe she won't be so altered but what I could recognize her."

The conductor growled at him, and the man subsided.

"Conductor," said he after an hour's silence, "conductor, if the wind isn't dead ahead, I wish you would put on more steam. I'd like to see where my wife is buried before the tombstone crumbles to pieces! Put yourself in my place for a moment!"

The conductor shook him off, and the man relapsed into profound melancholy.

"I say, conductor," said he, after a long pause, "I've got a note coming due in three months. Can't you fix it so as to rattle along a little?"

"If you come near me again I'll knock you down!" shouted the conductor, savagely.

The nervous man regarded him sadly, and went to his seat. Two hours later the conductor saw him chatting gayly and laughing heartily with a brother victim and approached him.

"Don't feel so badly about your wife's death?"

"Time heals all wounds," sighed the nervous man.

"And you are not so particular about the note?" sneered the conductor.

Not now. That's all right. Don't worry. I've been figuring up, and I find the note has become statute barred since I spoke to you last."

Not What He Asked.

In these days of individualism in thought and action the balance of decision tips more and more toward the personal. Even in the matter of spelling, the ego asserts itself in the face of tradition and history. "Bobby" in Tit-Bits, is not the only person who constitutes himself the final court of appeal in the realm of orthography.

"So you go to school, do you, Bobby?" asked the minister.

"Yes, sir," answered Bobby.

"Let me hear how you spell 'bread.'"

"Yes, sir, but you didn't ask me how the dictionary spells it; you asked me how I spell it."

The Great Alaskan Story
BY REX BEACH

Copyrighted by Rex E. Beach

As McNamara looked into the angry eyes of the lean-faced men beyond the grating, he felt that the game was growing close, and his blood tingled at the thought. He had not planned on a resistance so strong and swift, but he would meet it. He knew that they hungered for his destruction and that Glenister was their leader. He saw further that the man's hatred now stared at him openly for the first time. He knew that back of it was something more than love for the dull metal over which they wrangled, and then a thought came to him.

"Some of your work, eh, Glenister?" he mocked. "Were you afraid to come alone, or did you wait till you saw me with a lady?"

At the same instant he opened a door behind him, revealing Helen Chester. "You'd better not walk out with me, Miss Chester. This man might—well, you're safer here, you know. You'll pardon me for leaving you."

He hoped he could incite the young man to some rash act or word in the presence of the girl, and counted on the conspicuous heroism of his own position, facing the mob single-handed, one against fifty.

"Come out," said his enemy, hoarsely, upon whom the insult and the sight of the girl in the receiver's company had acted powerfully.

"Of course I'll come out, but I don't want this young lady to suffer any violence from your friends," said McNamara. "I am not armed, but I have the right to leave here unmolested—the right of an American citizen."

With that he raised his arms above his head. "Out of my way!" he cried. Morehouse opened the gate, and McNamara strode through the mob.

It is a peculiar thing that although under fury of passion a man may fire even upon the back of a defenceless foe, yet no one can offer violence to a man whose arms are raised on high and in whose glance is the level light of fearlessness. Moreover, it is safer to face a crowd thus than a single adversary.

McNamara had seen this psychological trick tried before and now took advantage of it to walk through the press slowly, eye to eye. He did it theatrically, for the benefit of the girl, and, as he foresaw, the men fell away before him—all but Glenister, who blocked him, gun in hand.

It was plain that the persecuted miner was beside himself with passion. McNamara came within an arm's length before pausing. Then he stopped and the two stared malignantly at each other, while the girl behind the railing heard her heart pounding in the stillness. Glenister raised his hand uncertainly, then let it fall. He shook his head, and stepped aside so that the other brushed past and out in the street.

Wheaton addressed the banker: "Mr. Morehouse, we've got orders and writs of one kind or another from the Circuit Court of Appeals at 'Frisco directing that this money be turned over to us." He shoved the papers towards the other. "We're not in a mood to trifle. That gold belongs to us, and we want it."

Morehouse looked carefully at the papers.

"I can't help you," he said. "These documents are not directed to me. They're issued to Mr. McNamara and Judge Stillman. If the Circuit Court of Appeals commands me to deliver it to you I'll do it, but otherwise I'll have to keep this dust here till it's drawn out by order of the court that gave it to me. That's the way it was put in here, and that's the way it'll be taken out."

"We want it now."

"Well, I can't let my sympathies influence me."

"Then we'll take it out, anyway," cried Glenister. "We've had the worst of it everywhere else and we're sick of it. Come on, men."

"Stand back!—all of you!" cried Morehouse. "Don't lay a hand on that gate. Boys, pick your men."

He called this last to his clerks, at the same instant whipping from behind the counter a carbine, which he cocked. The assayer brought in to view a shot-gun, while the cashier and clerks armed themselves. It was evident that the deposits of the Alaska Bank were abundantly safeguarded.

"I don't aim to have any trouble with you-all," continued the Southerner, "but that money stays here till it's drawn out right."

The crowd paused at this show of resistance, but Glenister rallied at them:

"Come on—come on! What's the matter with you? And from the light in his eye it was evident that he would not be balked.

Helen felt that a crisis was come, and braced herself. These men were in deadly earnest: the white-haired banker, his pale helpers, and those grim, quiet ones outside. There stood brawny, sun-browned men, with set jaws and frowning faces, and yellow-haired Scandinavians in whose blue eyes danced the flame of battle. These had been baffled at every turn goaded by repeated failure, and now stood shoulder to shoulder in their resistance to a cruel law. Suddenly Helen heard a command from the street and the quick tramp of men, while over the heads before her she saw the glint of rifle barrels. A file of soldiers with fixed bayonets thrust themselves through the crowd at the entrance.

"Clear the room!" commanded the officer.

"What does this mean?" shouted Wheaton.

"It means that Judge Stillman has called upon the military to guard this gold, that's all. Come, now, move quick." The men hesitated, then sullenly obeyed, for resistance to the blue of Uncle Sam comes only at the cost of much consideration.

"They're robbing us with our own soldiers," said Wheaton, when they were outside.

"Ay," said Glenister, darkly. "We've tried the law, but they're forcing us back to first principles. There's going to be murder here."

CHAPTER XII.

Counterplots.

Glenister had said that the Judge would not dare to disobey the mandates of the Circuit Court of Appeals, but he was wrong. Application was made for orders directing the enforcement of the writs—steps which would have restored possession of the Midas to its owners, as well as possession of the treasure in bank—but Stillman refused to grant them.

Wheaton called a meeting of the Swedes and their attorneys, advising a junction of forces. Dextery, who had returned from the mountains, was present. When they had finished their discussion, he said:

"It seems like I can always fight better when I know what the other fellow's game is. I'm going to spy on that outfit."

"We've had detectives at work for weeks," said the lawyer for the Scandinavians; "but they can't find out anything we don't know already."

Dextery said no more, but that night found him busied in the building adjoining the one wherein McNamara had his office. He had rented a back room on the top floor, and with the help of his partner sawed through the ceiling into the loft and found his way thence to the roof through a hatchway. Fortunately, there was but little space between the two buildings, and, furthermore, each boasted the square fronts common in mining-camps, which projected high enough to prevent observation from across the way. Thus he was enabled, without discovery, to gain the roof adjoining and to cut through into the loft. He crept cautiously in through the opening, and out upon a floor of joists sealed on the lower side, then lit a candle, and, locating McNamara's office, cut a peep-hole so that by lying flat on the timbers he could command a considerable portion of the room beneath.

Here, early the following morning, he camped with the patience of an Indian, emerging in the still of that night stiff, hungry, and atrociously cross. Meanwhile, there had been another meeting of the mine-owners, and it had been decided to send Wheaton, properly armed with affidavits and transcripts of certain records, back to San Francisco on the return trip of the Santa Maria, which had arrived in port. He was to institute proceedings for contempt of court, and it was hoped that by extraordinary effort he could gain quick action.

At daybreak Dextery returned to his post, and it was midnight before he crawled from his hiding-place to see the lawyer and Glenister.

"They had a spy on you all day, Wheaton," he began, "and they know you're going out to the States. You'll be arrested tomorrow morning before breakfast."

"Arrested! What for?"

"For being a spy."

"I don't just remember what the crime is—bigamy, or mayhem, or attainer of treason, or something—anyway, they'll get you in jail and that's all they want. They think you're the only lawyer that's wise enough to cause trouble and the only one they can't bribe."

"Lord! What'll I do? They'll watch every lighter that leaves the beach, and if they don't catch me that way, they'll search the ship."

"I've thought it all out," said the old man, to whom obstruction acted as a stimulant.

"Yes—but how?"

"Leave it to me. Get your things together and be ready to duck in two hours."

"I tell you they'll search the Santa Maria from stem to stern," protested the lawyer, but Dextery had gone.

"Better do as he says. His schemes are good ones," recommended Glenister, and accordingly the lawyer made preparation.

In the mean time the old prospector had begun at the end of Front street to make a systematic search of the gambling-houses. Although it was very late they were running noisily, and at last he found the man he wanted playing "Black Jack," the smell of tar in his clothes, the lilt of the sea in his boisterous laughter. Dextery drew him aside.

"Mac, there's only two things about you that's any good—your silence and your seamanship. Otherwise, you're a disreputable, drunken insect."

The sailor grinned.

"What is it you want now? If it's concerning money, or business, or the growed-up side of life, run along and don't disturb the carousals of a sailorman. If it's a fight, lemme get my hat."

"I want you to wake up your fireman and have steam on the tug in an hour, then wait for me below the bridge. You're chartered for twenty-four hours, and—remember, not a word."

"I'm on! Compared to me the Spinks of Egypt is as talkative as a phonograph."

The old man next turned his steps to the Northern Theater. The performance was still in progress, and he located the man he was hunting without difficulty.

Ascending the stairs, he knocked at the door of one of the boxes and called for Captain Stephens.

"I'm glad I found you, Cap," said he. "It saved me a trip out to your ship in the dark."

"What's the matter?"

Dextery drew him to an isolated corner. "Me an' my partner want to send a man to the States with you."

"All right."

"Well—er—here's the point," hesitated the miner, who rebelled at asking favors. "He's our law sharp, an' the McNamara outfit is tryin' to put the steel on him."

"I don't understand."

"Why, they've swore out a warrant an' aim to guard the shore tomorrow. We want you to—"

"Mr. Dextery, I'm not looking for trouble. I get enough in my own business."

BEAUTIFUL SPARTA CHURCH DEDICATED

BISHOP SCHWEBACH CONDUCTS IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES

ASSISTED BY THE CLERGY

New Cathedral at Neighboring City Adds Another to Sparta's Many Handsome Buildings

SPARTA, June 7.—(Special.)—With the dedication of the new St. Patrick's church, Sparta adds one more stately building to its already large number of fine structures. It is such that all Sparta can point to it with pride, it being one of the finest in the diocese of La Crosse.

The floor plan is that of a Latin cross consisting of nave and transept, from which extends the sanctuary. A fine section is the baptistery to the right of the large vestibule. The floors of vestibule and baptistery are entirely of green and white Italian marble, laid out in beautiful designs.

The church proper has two very imposing entrances, one at the front gable of the building and one on the side of the tower.

The dimensions of the church are 45x120 feet. It is designed in the late gothic style of architecture and gives an imposing and dominating appearance. The tower, while massive and strong in appearance from the ground up to belfry seems to die out in fine and graceful forms above this point, like a polyphonic composition rounded out in adagio.

The materials used are red sand mould brick with clean white mortar joints, and buff Bedford stone.

The interior is very imposing and it is only to be regretted that all of the furnishings and decorations are not complete. The windows are of very fine design and the color harmony is an exceptionally good one. The windows were executed by the Munich Art studio of Chicago.

The pews were made by Egid Hackner, altar builder, of La Crosse, according to special design of the architect to correspond with the rest of the building.

The church building was designed by Bernard Dockendorff, of the firm of Parkinson & Dockendorff, of La Crosse, who make a specialty of school and church buildings.

The young architect, who has just returned from a six years' course under the best architectural masters of Europe, certainly placed himself at once in the front rank among ecclesiastical architects with this beautiful building. The solid and substantial construction, under care of Mr. Parkinson, speaks well for the architect and the builder, Mr. Schneider, of Arcadia, Wis.

The steam heating plant was installed by N. F. Palen of this city and was tested last winter. The electric lighting has been done in the most modern and scientific manner by the O. I. Newton Son's Co. of this city and when completed with large central figures will add greatly to the beauty of the interior.

On account of the many unavoidable difficulties in the way of their large undertaking the congregation did not succeed in having their new church dedicated and so postponed it until this time. The Rev. Bishop Schwebach and clergy of La Crosse arrived here yesterday morning and at once took carriages to the parsonage to prepare for the ceremony which commenced at 10 o'clock.

At that hour the bishop was escorted to the church and the ceremony proceeded. The sermon was delivered by Monsignor A. Ph. Kremer, vicar general of the La Crosse diocese.

At noon and at evening a bountiful dinner was spread for the visitors.

GOOD LOCATION FOR A DOCTOR

(Youth's Companion.)

Two young physicians were exchanging news for the first time since their graduation from the medical college.

"I was surprised when I heard you'd settled at Beech Hill," said one to the other, laughing. "I've always heard it spoken of as such a healthy suburb. I wondered if you'd find any patients there."

"My dear man," said his classmate, earnestly, "it is a healthy suburb, but it is also the stronghold of football; every family has its automobile, and there never was such a place before for giving children's parties. I am doing splendidly, thank you."

THE STRONGEST WOOD

(The Southwest.)

Recent official tests of the many valuable hardwoods native to western Australia have made known the extraordinary properties of yate, believed to be the strongest of all known woods. Its average tensile strength of 24,000 pounds to the square inch, equalling that of good cast iron. But many specimens are much stronger and one was tested up to seventeen and a half tons to the square inch, which is equal to the tensile strength of wrought iron.

The tree grows to a maximum height of 100 feet and has sometimes a diameter of two and one-half or even three feet.

IN THE JURY ROOM

(Philadelphia Inquirer.)

The second day drew to its close with the twelfth jurymen still unconvinced. "Well, gentlemen," said the court officer, entering quietly, "shall I, as usual, order twelve dinners?"
"Make it," said the foreman, "eleven dinners and a bale of hay."

RAILROADS' VALUE $18,000,000 MORE

TAX ABOUT $100,000 MORE THAN FOR LAST YEAR

TOTAL IS NOW $255,855,000

Companies Will Pay the State $10,000 More Under Ad Valorem System.

MADISON, Wis., June 7.—The state tax commission, sitting as the state board of assessment, has completed the preliminary assessment of the property of each railroad and telegraph company in Wisconsin.

The railroad assessment is increased about $18,000,000. The assessed valuation of all the railroads in the state one year ago was $238,185,000. This year the assessment is $255,855,000.

The tax this year on the railroads is about $100,000 bigger than last year. The total tax collected a year ago was $2,700,237.56. The total tax to be collected this year is $2,801,740.17.

First Telegraph Assessment.

This is the first time that the tax commission, or state board of assessment, has appraised the telegraph property of the state. The total assessment for the telegraph property of the state is $1,900,000, and the tax to be collected is $23,598.33. This is the first time that the telegraph companies have been assessed under the ad valorem system.

EXTRAORDINARY COLLECTION OF CLOTHING

It is quite generally known that Hart, Schaffner & Marx, are, and always have been at the head of the many manufacturers of ready-to-wear clothing, and why not—from the very first they knew the possibilities of the business—and were farsighted enough to see that the ones who produced the best, as to material and workmanship, would be the ones to enjoy the glory and success.

Hart, Schaffner & Marx wanted glory—they wanted success—they have achieved both, and are recognized all over the land as the most successful.

All Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes bear the H. S. & M. label—"A small thing to look for, a big thing to find."

We are exclusive sellers for La Crosse, of this famous make of Clothing—we know this to be one reason why we are hailed as successful clothing merchants.

We want the best clothes for our customers—we buy Hart, Schaffner & Marx, and every season we buy more than the preceding one—SURELY THERE'S A REASON.

Our stock is bought with our customers, both actual and prospective, in mind, we want to carry styles and varieties that will please every one who comes to our store.

That we have a complete stock of H. S. & M. Clothing for men and young men means much.

We are just as careful and as particular in the purchase of our Boys' and Childrens' Department—we have here a very complete line for both.

It is not possible to make any claims for our Hat Department further than that we are exclusive agents for the celebrated Knox and Longley Hats. That's quite enough isn't it?

And a full stock of the newest shapes—both stiff and soft—straws and Panamas.

Our Furnishing Goods Department is a Haberdashery indeed. Everything for men and boys with quality the slogan always.

Remarkable Rescue
That truth is stranger than fiction, has once more been demonstrated in the little town of Fedora, Tenn., the residence of C. V. Pepper. He writes:

"I was in bed, entirely disabled with hemorrhages of the lungs and throat. Doctors failed to help me, and all hope had fled when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery. Then instant relief came. The coughing soon ceased; the bleeding diminished rapidly, and in three weeks I was able to go to work." Guaranteed cure for coughs and colds. 50c. and 1.00. at O. T. Erhart's drug store. According to the story told by his 3 year old brother, who was the only witness to the accident, William was standing on a box adjusting the belt of the engine. The box suddenly slipped beneath him and the boy throwing out his hand to save himself was caught in the belt and drawn to the pulley wheel, where his arm was jerked off above the elbow. He was then whirled heavily to the ground, falling on his head and breaking his neck. He was dead when picked up.

FLAG ANNIVERSARY

Circular From Patriotic Instructor Received

Circulars containing the following have been received in La Crosse:

Friday, the 14th of June, will be the one hundredth anniversary of the flag of the United States. The flag was designed for a nation of thirteen colonies, stretched like a belt along the Atlantic coast, made up of less than three millions of people without common traditions or language; drawn together only by common danger from savages within, and oppression from without, which threatened their existence and liberties. That flag now waves over a nation extending from the Gulf of Mexico to the lakes, from the Atlantic to beyond the Pacific sea, and inhabited by nearly ninety millions of people, who speak a common language.

Our flag of civilized nations. The resolution by congress for the adoption of the Stars and Stripes on June the 14th, 1777, was as follows:

"Resolved, That the flag of the United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the Union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

"The design of this flag is credited to George Washington, and in part was taken from his family coat of arms. Such is the origin of a flag dedicated to the proposition that 'all men are free and equal.' Let us honor the natal day of our national flag—displaying it from our public buildings, schools and homes in recognition of this memorable day.

The men of the Grand Army of the Republic, who preserved the nation in the greatest war of modern times and made vital the declaration of our fathers call upon all who live under the flag to recognize this day by patriotic observances in schools and—on the Sunday preceding—in churches. To this end we suggest that the governor of every state by proclamation announce the day and promote its recognition; that the press scatter this call—as seeds of patriotism—broadcast over the land. Such recognition will nourish the greatness of our nation, inculcate noble citizenship, the object lesson to the new generations that have come upon the stage since the Civil war.

WARREN LEE GOSS.
National Patriotic Instructor, Grand Army of the Republic.

ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup

Pleasant to take and does not gripe or nauseate

Cures Chronic Constipation, Stomach and Liver Trouble

Stimulation Without Irritation.

ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup is a new laxative syrup combined with the delicious flavor of fruits, and is very pleasant to take. It will not gripe or sicken. It is much more pleasant and effective than Pills, Tablets and Saline Waters, as it does not derange the Stomach, or irritate the Kidneys, Liver or Bowels.

Constipation.

ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup will positively cure chronic constipation as it restores the natural action of the intestinal tract. Ordinary cathartics may give temporary relief but the stomach is upset and the bowels are irritated without any permanent benefit having been derived.

The condition of the patient remains unchanged. The Stomach, Liver and Bowels have not been stimulated and in a few days a stronger purgative may have to be taken. This is why Pills and Aperient Waters never give permanent relief. Their violent action results in an unnatural movement of the bowels and it is necessary to keep taking them indefinitely.

Why ORINO is different.

ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup is the only preparation that really acts upon all of the digestive organs. Other preparations act upon the lower bowel only and do not touch the Liver. It can very readily be seen that a preparation that does not act upon all of the digestive organs can not cure Chronic Constipation, Torpid Liver, Indigestion, Sour Stomach, etc.

For Biliousness and Sick Headache.

Take ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup. It sweetens the stomach, aids digestion and acts as a gentle stimulant on the liver and bowels without irritating these organs.

Clears the Complexion.

ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup stimulates the liver and thoroughly cleanses the system and clears the complexion of pimples and blotches. It is the best laxative for women and children as it is mild and pleasant, and does not gripe or sicken. Refuse substitutes.

OUR GUARANTEE

Take ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup and if you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

TRAVELERS PAY CASH CALL OFF NEW RATE

Most People Who Board a Train Without Tickets

One effect of the reduced passenger rate which the railroads in Wisconsin are beginning to feel and which they may be compelled to take some measure to restrain is the increased number of passengers who are paying for their passage while on the trains. There is no excess charge at present by following that practice, and people have quickly developed the habit of neglecting to buy their tickets.

One class in particular which is said to be paying the fare to conductors are the traveling salesmen. In view of the fact that the law in Wisconsin prohibits any more than 2 1/2 cents a mile being charged, mileage books are no longer honored for interstate travel, and the traveling salesman has to pay his way in the same manner as other people. The railroads are seeking to find some device, but so far have failed to secure one. The railroads are not alone in complaining of the practice of paying fares on trains, but some of the wholesale merchants have been asking the railroads if some scheme cannot be devised which will relieve salesmen of the trouble of carrying large sums of money for traveling expenses.

If the custom of paying fares on board trains becomes more common it is probable that the railroads may adopt some method of preventing it. It has been pointed out that there is nothing in the law to prohibit the railroads from refusing to let passengers in the trains unless they show their tickets. This plan could be carried out without much trouble in large stations where there are gates leading to the platform and is being done to some extent at present, but at smaller stations there would be some difficulty in enforcing the rule.

LAWRENCE NEEDS ROOM

APPLETON, Wis., June 7.—(Special).—President Samuel Plantz of Lawrence university said today that the new buildings proposed for the university will have to be built in the next year or two to keep pace with the growing attendance. Already scores of applications have come from high school students of the state for admission, and the president believes that there will be nearly 200 more students at Lawrence in 1907-1908 than in 1905-1906. Dr. Plantz is now engaged in raising $150,000 to secure the $50,000 fund from the general education board, and when this is secured, new buildings will be added. Although the dormitories will be crowded Dr. Plantz announces that there is room for all, and he will make a special effort to look after new students, and the same care will be accorded them that graduates and old students are praising so highly.

VETERAN OUTRUNS HORSE

LEXINGTON, Ky., June 7.—To escape a workhouse sentence Frank Tatman, an ex-confederate soldier, ran a race with a mounted policeman and won. Tatman, who is 65 years old, returned last night from the Richmond (Va.) confederate reunion. He had been drinking and was arrested and brought before Police Judge Riley. He pleaded so hard for mercy that Judge Riley told him if he would win a race from the mounted policeman he could go free. Tatman ran three blocks with the officer's horse and won by three feet. He was immediately released.

COMMISSION FAVORS RAILROAD

WYOCENA, June 7.—The railroad commission has dismissed the petition of J. M. Bushnell of this village for an order to compel the Milwaukee road to stop more of its passenger trains at this place. The commission holds that the present service of two trains in each direction daily and one on Sunday is reasonably adequate service for a village of 450 population.

COMMENCEMENT AT WAUWATOSA

WAUWATOSA, June 7.—Commencement exercises of Wauwatosa High school will be held June 21 in the First Congregational church. The address is to be given by the Rev. Frederick Edwards, Milwaukee.

Unless a woman loves wisely her husband isn't loved any too well.

The action of one of the lines putting in a tariff quoting a $20 rate from St. Paul to New York via Buffalo on steamship, has been taken up with the Western Passenger association in order to try and call off the rate, according to reports received by La Crosse men. While there is no evidence it is suspected that one of the eastern roads has broken the agreement made by the lines in the Central territory that the rate via Montreal would not be met by way of Buffalo, or else, it is argued, the line from St. Paul to Chicago could not offer such a rate.

It is figured that unless one of the eastern lines is in the game the St. Paul-Chicago line is only getting about $4 as its share of the $20 rate. If the eastern line has some understanding with the western line, then it is figured that possibly the latter is getting a share of $6 to $7.

As the situation respecting steamship business from the Northwestern stands it is tending to shake up conditions considerably. The Western Passenger association lines were not able to put in their one-way rates to eastern points until June 2, but the line said to have made it good for June 1, applying only to steamship travel, however. The line did not give notice to the interstate commerce commission, it is said, on the ground presumably that, since the rate applies to transcontinental travel, such notice is not required.

One of the railroad men said yesterday, however, that the interstate commerce commission told on of the western lines recently that the commission must be given the usual thirty days' notice on tickets to be used in connection with transatlantic travel as on other rates.

FATHER MEETS HIS DAUGHTER

Parent and Child Reunited When She Is 42 Years Old

NORFOLK, Va., June 7.—Miss Ella Daniels of Crystal Lake, near Chicago, today in Norfolk found her father, Josiah Daniels, from whom she had been separated for forty-two years. They had lost all trace of each other during that time.

Miss Daniels was reared by her uncle and aunt, Benjamin Brown and Miss Jennie Brown, who live at Crystal Lake. The father and daughter met today for the first time since 1865, when, leaving his child to others, Josiah Daniels, whose wife had died five years before, turned to the new west.

He came west to Kansas, where he lived thirty-two years. In the meantime Benjamin Brown and his sister, with their foster child, moved to Polo. Daniels lost trace of them. He came to Norfolk and made money farming. Now he is retired.

Six years ago the lost daughter left Polo and began teaching in New Mexico. Accidentally, through a distant relative, she learned of her father's whereabouts. Letters followed and today Miss Daniels stepped from a train to greet her unknown father, and as she sprang into the arms of the 72 year old stranger she said: "You're my father."

"I am if you're Ella," he replied.

MAY CONSOLIDATE CITIES

MENASHA, Wis., June 7.—(Special).—The agitation for consolidating the twin cities—Neenah and Menasha—has taken new root, and if both cities are generally in favor of this move, active steps will be taken soon. "Such a consummation," says the Neenah Daily Times, "would do more than all other efforts combined to bring trade to the 'new' city and to make this one important instead of two comparatively insignificant cities."

NO STRIKE OF TEACHERS

MANITOWOC, Wis., June 7.—Affirming that articles published in Two Rivers, Manitowoc and in a Milwaukee paper, in reporting the wholesale resignation of the Two Rivers corps of school teachers, are malicious, false and misleading, the board and every teacher in the city have signed a statement to this effect. The published reports were that the women teachers took exception because one member of the force, Leonard Evans, was not re-engaged; also that they took exception to criticisms directed against them because of their actions in their boarding place, the Hotel Hamilton. The teachers in their statement say there is no friction in the board. Evans says he asked for a raise, which was not granted, hence his retirement.

S.S.S. CURES SKIN DISEASES

No skin disease can exist without an underlying cause, and in most instances that cause is either a humor in the blood or an excess of fiery acids in this vital fluid. These humors and acids get into the blood, generally because of an inactive and sluggish condition of those members whose duty it is to collect and carry off the waste and refuse of the body. This unhealthy matter is left in the system to sour and ferment, and soon the circulation becomes charged with the acid poison. The blood, in its effort to rid itself of this foreign matter, begins to throw off the humors and acids through the pores and glands of the skin. These coming in contact with the delicate tissues and fibers with which the skin is so abundantly supplied produces irritation and inflammation on the surface, and Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum, or some other troublesome and disfiguring skin disease is the result. External applications, while they soothe the itching, and are beneficial in keeping the skin clean, can never cure skin affections, because they do not reach the blood where the real trouble is located. A thorough cleansing of the blood is the only permanent cure for skin diseases. S. S. S., the greatest of all blood purifiers, is the best treatment. It cures by neutralizing the acids and removing the humors from the circulation so that the skin, instead of being irritated and diseased by the exuding acid matter, is nourished and soothed by a cooling, healthy stream of blood. S. S. S. goes down to the very bottom of the trouble, removes the foreign matter and thereby permanently cures every form of skin trouble. Do not expect to cure a blood disease with local applications alone, but begin the use of S. S. S., and when you have removed the cause the skin will be free from disease. Special book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice free. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

PILEDRIER HITS DYNAMITE

Gripped of Explosives, Are Harmless Because Watersoaked

Yankton, S. D., June 7.—Some excitement was caused here on Tuesday by the finding of eight sticks of dynamite, a bunch of fuses, a box of caps and a revolver, all inclosed in a cheap grip. The "plant" was found under a Great Northern bridge over the Rhine creek hidden in water. This fact is all that saved the Great Northern road crew from a catastrophe, the water having soaked into everything. From the deep corrosion on the revolver the grip is supposed to have been hidden at least several years ago by cracksmen. The grip was discovered from the fact that the pile driver had met some obstruction. A workman going down to see what was the matter drew out the grip and its dangerous contents.

ARMED POSSES HUNT MURDERER

GEORGE KADELBACH STILL AT LARGE; PURSUED BY CITIZENS

SUICIDE REPORT IS FALSE

Sends Letter to Brother Confessing Killing of His Sister. In-law

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 7.—Armed posses of citizens and detectives engaged in the mad hunt for George Kadelbach were moved to fresh activities late yesterday by the covery of a written confession, in which Kadelbach admits that he murdered his sister-in-law, Mrs. Catherine McCart, and concealed her body in an abandoned well on his farm near Long Lake, Hennepin county. Kadelbach's confession is one of the most remarkable criminal documents on record. It was addressed to Henry Clason, brother of the slain woman. It is as follows:

"DELANO, June 4, 1907.—Dear Brother Henry: This is hell, or it will be soon. I walked up here this afternoon to have a chance to write you a little and tell you what to do later. Kattie is to blame for this and I was a fool for it. She has been waiting me to kill her and myself ever since last fall, so I killed her, but changed my mind about myself. Now I am sorry that I did it. I am tired of life for the last 10 years, so tonight it will end it. I didn't know which to do. To hang myself or cut my throat or jump in the river, so I tossed up a penny and it said take the river so you will find me in the bottom of the lake. Now, Henry, I want you to look after my stock and help Lizzie sell everything. I wanted to see Lizzie and the children once more but it is too late now. I will send you my tax receipts; the first half is paid. I have all my little bills. Tell Lizzie I owe $100 at the Maple Plain bank. I think it best to put myself out of the way. It will save us much trouble; so in less than an hour I will be on my way to hell. I have a little money in my pants pocket that will pay for digging a hole for me. You better not tell Lizzie right away. She might take it too hard. I am sorry that I did that crime, but I have no more show now, so farewell to all. That is all I have to say. Goodbye to all. Yours, "GEORGE KADELBACH."

To Put Off Track

Police believe that Kadelbach's intimation of suicide in the confession is a ruse to put them off the track. They are acting on the theory that he is still at large, a theory that is strengthened by corroborative evidence. Kadelbach is reported to have been seen by several persons after he left the farm where the murder was committed.

Neighbors intimately acquainted with Kadelbach declare that he is desperate, armed to the teeth and will fight to the last ditch when cornered. It is said that he will kill himself rather than submit to capture.

Posses are scouring the woods near Long Lake, the river is being searched, a dragnet has been cast over St. Paul and Minneapolis—not a loophole of escape has been left for Kadelbach if he is still in the vicinity of the crime.

DETECTIVE IS ACCUSED OF WRECK

RAILWAY DETECTIVES DECLARE HE ATTEMPTED CRIME

MATTY CAUGHT IN A TRAP

L. S. Crandall of Dayton, Ohio, Landed in Jail. Makes Damaging Admissions.

FORT DODGE, Iowa, June 7.—S. S. Crandall, an amateur detective has been placed under arrest here by Special Officers E. E. Stark and G. A. Gaton.

On the night of May 17 two ties were placed on the track of the Northwestern line near Linnberg, and were struck by the fast passenger known as No. 16. Little damage was done. Six ties were placed on the track, near the same place, on the night of May 22, and were struck by the same train, badly damaging the engine. The train was stopped only after two of the ties had become wedged in a bridge. Special officers were sent out from Chicago to work on the case and have not rested in the matter until the arrest of Crandall, yesterday afternoon.

Shortly after their arrival at Dayton, Crandall, who claims to be a member of the Webster Detective Agency, at Des Moines, offered his services to the officers, saying he had evidence which would place the blame on the guilty parties. He was led out as much as possible by the officers, and the more they worked on the case the more they were satisfied he was guilty. Finally he made an offer for a stated consideration to place the blame on the guilty party, and was induced to come to this city to meet the proper parties to close up the matter. Soon after his arrival here he was arrested and placed in the county jail, after being sweated by the officers, during which time he made damaging admissions.

Special Officer Stark said that Crandall was a man of most unenviable reputation and had the entire village of Dayton terrorized with his threats of power as a detective. He claims to have evidence of his connection with other crimes in the past and feels sure of landing him in the penitentiary for a long term.

BANK TELLER IS EMBEZZLER

Philip Kempfen Arrested in Seattle for Default

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 7.—There is a charge of embezzlement of the sum of $5,000 lodged against Philip W. Kempfen, a former teller of the Capital National bank, by John R. Mitchell, president of the bank.

Kempfen left his position in the bank May 15, insisting that he was in need of physical recuperation and went off to the Golden West. On Friday last the officers of the bank found trouble with his accounts and making a careful and thorough examination of his books brought to light a substantial shortage which, Mr. Mitchell says, will amount to no more than $5,000 and is fully covered by an employment bond in the National Surety company.

Kempfen was arrested yesterday in Seattle where he registered at a hotel Saturday as P. W. Keerstens of Spokane.

TAILOR IS MISSING

Milwaukee Man Disappears Leaving Debts

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 7.—Frank W. Lyon, 443 Milwaukee street, has disappeared. Lyon had been in business here for twelve years and has conducted fashionable tailoring establishments. He told his clerks last Friday morning that he was going to Chicago to collect bills; since that time he has not been seen.

His liabilities amount to about $10,000; assets, in the way of outstanding debts, about $1,000.

The defunct firm of Bubel Bros., woolen merchants, 464-68 Milwaukee street, took charge of the stock left by Lyon yesterday. Bubel Brothers are said to have been the heaviest creditors of Lyon. The Fidelity Trust company, Wells building, is trustee for Bubel Brothers.

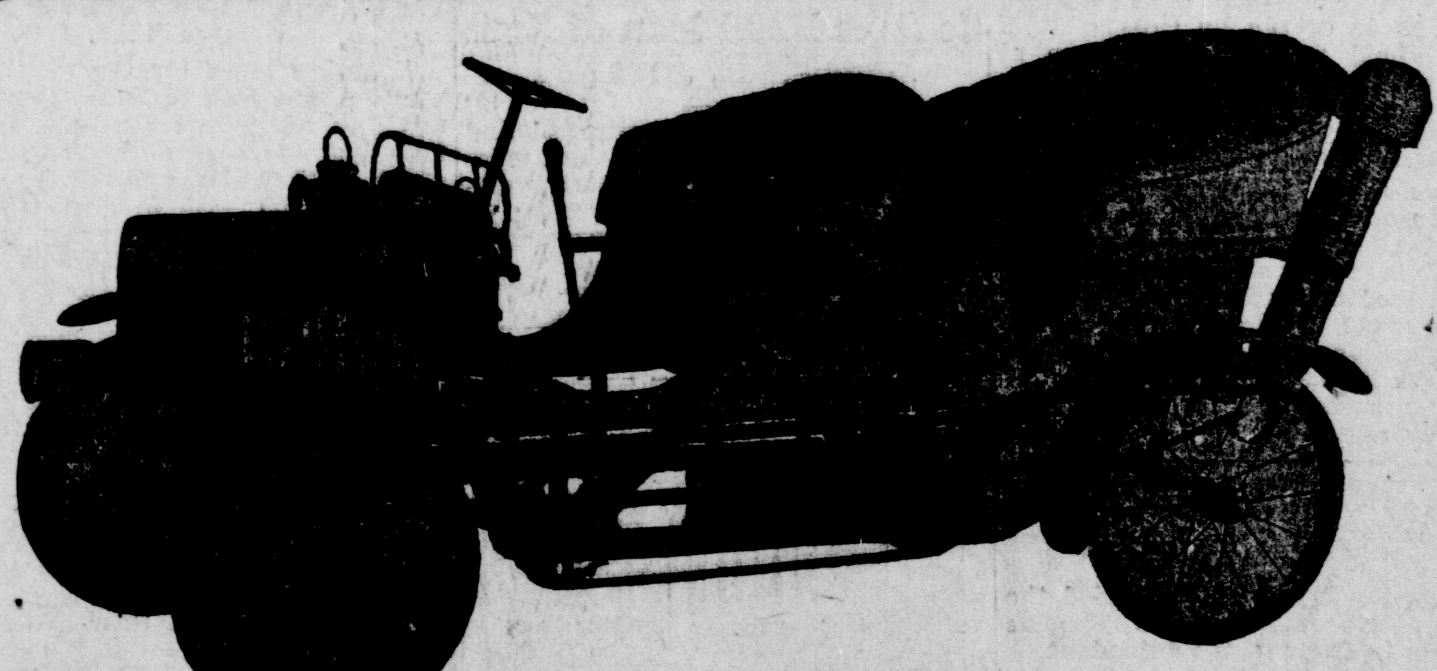

NEW TRAFFIC RECORD

SAULT STE MARIE, Mich., June 7.—Notwithstanding the trouble caused by ice fields on Lake Superior and the unreasonable snowstorms that compelled all craft to seek shelter, the traffic through the ship canals at Sault Ste. Marie broke all previous records last month. The vessels locked through carried a total of upward of 7,800,000 net tons of freight, exceeding the maximum of any previous month during the fifty-one years the canal has been in operation.

The closest approach to this new record was made in July last year. At this time 7,732,771 tons of freight passed through the canals.

Sheriff Takes Horse to West Salem and Here McCarthy Replevins
the Equine

The story of a horse, held by H. Temperle on a farm near Mindora, attached by Wm. Young of West Salem, and replevined by one McCarthy of Cataract, will be told in the justice court of C. W. Hunt tomorrow morning. The first part of the case is being heard today before Justice Barber at Mindora.

Mr. Young of West Salem sunk a well on the farm of Mr. Temperle near Mindora. Mr. Temperle rents the farm from Mr. Havins. Mr. Young claimed he was not paid for the work and secured an attachment for a horse on the farm. The attachment resulted in the horse being taken to West Salem where it is now held by the sheriff. Then came along Mr. McCarthy, claiming the horse belonged to him, and as a result he went before the sheriff, through his attorneys, Wolfe & Wolfe, and replevined the horse, securing the action. This end of the case will come up tomorrow.

Wolfe & Wolfe represent Messrs. Havins and McCarthy in the case. Wm. Wolfe is attending to the case at Mindora today.

He has not been in Onalaska since 1896. At that time he resided there and had resided there for several years. The Italian authorities are very anxious to learn of him.

assinate Frank Steunenberg. The victim of the fiendish act was well known and liked in this community, nearly every person in the hearing of Orchard's mechanically phonographic intonations had personal regard for the dead man and his family. There is never an exultant or repentant intonation in this arch assassin's voice. He told of waiting on Christmas night on Steunenberg's porch to shoot him down with a sawed-off shotgun filled with buckshot, and the nerves of counsel, inspectors and bailiffs seemed on tension, fearing that an outcry from a hundred persons was forthcoming; but Orchard never wavered, never wavered in his recital. He would have slain a man whom he never knew, who had never wronged him, on the night of all nights of the year, when human sentiment and Christ-mas sympathy are uppermost in every man's heart, if his deadly murderous weapon had been ready.

Lying in Wait

"I hid on his porch," went on the monster, "and waited for Steunenberg to come home on Christmas. He had a pop gun that Pettibone had given me. I had seen Steunenberg with his family that afternoon and knew he was at home. I hurried to his house and waited for him, but he there before I put the gun together and I did not kill him that time."

Orchard told this tale as indifferently, as easily as a man would tell of killing a fly. He waited a month and ascertained from Steunenberg's own son and wife just when the former governor would be home, and then he fixed the bomb to the gate that "did the work," as he expressed it. Steunenberg went unwarned, unsuspecting to his death, and Orchard calmly ate his supper before the victim was cold, and he is now said to have become religious and looks for his reward in Heaven!

Life of Terror

"Haywood suggested," Orchard said, "that we ought to get ex-Governor Steunenberg. He thought that if we got him after letting him go for seven or eight years and then went back to Paterson, N. J., and wrote letters to Judge Gabbert, Judge Goddard, Peabody, Bell and the others telling them they would get the same thing as Steunenberg if we did not know they were not forgotten either and would be a good effect. Moyer said it would be better than killing them; that it would be a living death for they would be confronted by the thought always of somebody waiting for them."

"Haywood said he had sent several men to Caldwell to do the Steunenberg job. Among them were Minister, Art Bascom, McCarthy and Steve Adams. Minister was a miner—a member of the union. I did not know McCarthy. Pettibone and Haywood told me that Steve Adams and Jack Simpkins were in Idaho to get rid of some claim jumpers. They were then going to jump Steunenberg. I went to California after this conversation."

Got His Orders

"When I got back I talked with Adams, Haywood and Pettibone. Adams said that the money Haywood and Pettibone had sent him to Idaho had miscarried and he never got it. For this reason he had not gone to Caldwell. Adams said he had got rid of the claim jumpers objected to all the testimony as to what Adams had said. The objection was overruled on the ground that Orchard had told Pettibone all that Adams had said."

Orchard said he started for Idaho two days after talking with Moyer and the others on the subject. Pettibone helped him get his trunk ready. He put the Peabody bomb, prepared for use at Canon City, in the trunk and took it along. Pettibone knew about this, he said.

"Before starting for Idaho," said Orchard, "Mr. Haywood gave me $240 in cash. He had given me $60 before this. I was to send to Mr. Pettibone for any additional funds. Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone were all present when this arrangement was made. I went from Denver to Salt Lake, spent four or five days there and then came on to Nampa, Idaho, stopping at the Commercial hotel."

A $5,000 monument is to be erected at Richmond, Va., as a memorial to Edgar A. Poe, the famous southern writer.

nation to which the investors belong to employ warships and guns in making collections.

Root Is For It.

Secretary Root has been a believer in the Drago doctrine since the subject has been seriously agitated and if it is taken up with by the Hague conference and adopted it will be due largely to his efforts. More than this, he is already given credit in the Latin American countries for effective work in behalf of this doctrine. He understands that the adoption of this principle will make much easier and simpler the matter of the enforcement of the Monroe doctrine by the United States. The greater the complications between Latin America and Europe in the matter of debts, the more difficult it is for this country to sway the "big stick" over the rest of the Western Hemisphere and insist that European countries shall keep their hands off the Americans. He had understood, too, that inasmuch as the Latin American countries were anxious to have the Drago doctrine recognized it would work for better relations between the United States and Latin America if the United States stood out as the foremost champion of this doctrine. The advantages of any policy that would work for the encouragement of legitimate investment in Central and South American countries and the upbuilding of stable governments and of stable business and industrial conditions has been well understood by Mr. Root. He has bent his energies accordingly. Since his visit to South America and his evident recognition of the importance of right relations between this country and the countries to the south of the United States no man in the world's diplomatic field has stood as high as he in the estimation of the south and Central American diplomats. He is the first head of the state department to recognize the possibilities of wise diplomacy exerted toward Latin America and from Latin America he is already getting recognition accordingly.

SHOWERS AND WARM

This Is the Sort of Weather
We'll Have Tomorrow

Showers are predicted for tonight and tomorrow, with on change in temperature. The weather here for the past twenty-four hours has been as high as 74 and as low as fifty degrees with a four mile wind. Showers will be general over the northwest tonight and Saturday.

Weather Observer E. C. Thompson says today:

The pressure continues low in the Rocky mountain districts and has spread eastward into the Mississippi valley. Centers of depression are located in western Kansas and north of Montana. These conditions will cause a continuation of unsettled weather in this section tonight and Saturday with showers and nearly stationary temperature.

Showers have occurred in the Missouri and central and upper Mississippi valleys and continue this morning. The rainfall has been generally light except at Sioux City and Omaha, where 1.08 and 1.48 inches respectively occurred. The temperature changes have been small in all sections with a general upward tendency, except in the Rocky mountain districts.

MAY MOVE TO SOUTH SIDE

News That Vote-Berger Factory May Seek New Location Is Discussed
With Much Concern

There is talk among the business men of the North side on the subject of retaining the Vote-Berger Telephone Manufacturing company for the North side.
Recently the company decided to add $100,000 to their capital stock and to either enlarge their old factory or rebuild if a suitable site can be secured. This matter was left in the hands of the board of directors.
The chief argument put up against locating on the North side by the company is that it is almost impossible for them to secure young men who will work steadily. The company claims that most of them prefer railroad work and few of them will work in the factory. This trouble the North side people think could be eliminated. As yet no decided action has been taken on the matter.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL
Well Known Engineer Ill
With Rheumatism

George Hiscox, 712 Caledonia street, a well known engineer on the C. M. & St. P. railroad, was taken to the La Crosse hospital yesterday afternoon.
Mr. Hiscox has been ill with rheumatism for some time, and of late his condition has become so serious that it was found advisable to have him removed to the hospital where he will be under constant medical care.

NORTH SIDE BRIEFS

John Gondore, who has been ill at his home, 1030 Avon street, for some time, has recovered and is able to be out.

Side business visitor yesterday.
Mr. Darling, 1028 Caledonia

aged in the wreck at Winona Tuesday have been brought to the repair shops of the Milwaukee road here for repairs. One is on the road again, in good condition.

HILLSBORO RAIL-ROAD EXTENSION WILL GO FROM HILLSBORO TO RICHLAND CENTER
PETITIONS ARE OVERSIGNED

No Trouble Will Be Experienced in Raising Required Funds for the Improvement.
The Hillsboro and Southeastern railroad, running out of Hillsboro, south of here into Vernon county and Richland county, is to be extended to Richland Center. This will make only a short drive from the end of the La Crosse and Southeastern at Viroqua to make connection with that road.
A petition signed by a good majority of the property owners of the town of Rockbridge, granting aid to the Hillsboro & Southeastern railroad has been filed with the clerk of that town. It contains quite a number more signatures than is necessary and after complying with the provisions of the law, that the said petition must remain on file ten days before action upon the same is taken, the town authorities will proceed to issue bonds. The amount of aid granted through this petition is $15,- 200.
W. W. Cash, who represents the Hillsboro Railroad company in the project says that work would be commenced upon the new line immediately upon the issuance of these bonds. The town of Henrietta voted the aid asked a year ago.
The conditions upon which this aid is voted are that the Hillsboro & Southeastern people construct and equip a standard gauge railroad from Hillsboro to Richland Center by way of Yuba, Hub City, Rockbridge and Buck Creek, with stations at each of the above named places, the same to be completed and cars in operation thereon not later than February 1st, 1909.

evening next Thursday, the final rehearsal will be held in the church

the new town chairman, A. C. Davis

ST. PAUL, June 7.—It looked for a while as if diphtheria, smallpox, were going to put the kibosh on Cupid.

Mrs. Alice La Farge some time ago went to the house of her fiancé, Alonzo L. Gordon, to nurse his boy, who was ill with diphtheria. The nurses mamma went along to act as chaperon.
Then the doctor told them the boy was also coming down with small-pox.
Mamma in Quandary.
Mamma decided it was about time
for her to make her getaway.
But she didn't care to allow her daughter to stay alone with her fiancee and be at the mercy of the village gossips, so they put up a sign,
"Preacher Wanted." The house was quarantined and no preacher would go on the job.
Wednesday the thing was all arranged over the phone, and in the afternoon Judge Woods of St. Louis Park, Minnetonka, where the couple lives, drew up on the sidewalk in front of the house, and, surrounded by the proper number of witnesses, shouted the ceremony to the man and maid, standing on the edge of their front porch, some 30 feet away,
and the two were made one.

Quarantined Prisoner
Mamma decided she would leave,
but by that time the health officer had already tacked up the smallpox sign and she remains.

Crosse City Railway company, is having plans drawn for a beautiful summer home on the top of what is

E. Bennett is the architect.
The home will be of the bungalow style, what is generally termed a New England cottage. It will be a two story structure with beautiful interior and exterior finishings, designed after the modern style of summer houses. The front will have a large, deep setting porch. The sitting room of the home will contain a large open hearth of stone and the ceiling will be beamed.

Latest Automobile Hat—Smart Trim-

Automobile hats are now made with hair protectors attached. They are hoodlike arrangements, covering the back hair. They fit snugly and are fastened to the hat by buttons, hooks and eyes or are sewed to the rim of the cap. Leather, pongee, cravenette, silk and satin, all are used in the making of the newest garments for motor wear.

are very smart. For instance, a gown of gray and white printed chiffon has a surplus ice bodice folded over a cream chantilly yoke and vest. At the top of the lace stock is a narrow line of soft silvery green silk. Below the neck are three demure little bows of the same. At the elbow where the undersleeves of white mull emerge from those of chiffon and lace are narrow pipings of the green silk.
Dainty summer frocks in tatiote or muslin have finely gathered bodices and skirts, the uncommon touch being a box plait of satin ribbon down the center, decorated with tiny ruffled rosettes of ribbon in place of buttons.
The neck is finished with the daintiest of small lawn and valenciennes collars.
Panama cloth is a favorite material for spring suits, and the model illustrated is of this cloth in smoked gray trimmed with braid. The little vest is of velvet overlaid with oriental embroidery, that gives a touch of color and brilliancy to the whole.

THOMAS-REUTER RECITAL
LAST NIGHT SUCCESSFUL
The concert last evening at Germania hall was attended by a fairly large and appreciative audience. The Leiderkranz and Frohsinn Singing societies rendered two numbers in an acceptable manner. Arthur Thomas directing the German society and Robert Isler the Frohsinn.
George McReynolds played a flute solo which pleased the audience very much. The Reuter quartette, composed of two violins, viola and cello,
were heard in the Beethoven C Minor quartette. This number was a very interesting one. Miss Grace McLindon was at her best last evening and was warmly welcomed by the audience. "Red Roses of June" was her first number, followed by "A Little Irish Song" for an encore. She was in good voice and her high notes were especially good. Mr. Reuter's violin playing was exceptionally good last evening. For an encore he played an exquisite little air which will long linger in the memory. Oscar Frey acted acceptably as accompanist.

Mr. Thomas, for his solo, played Chopins Fantasie in C minor. He has remarkably good technique and showed himself possessed of great talent. His encore, "The Chase," was especially along the line of technique and was greatly enjoyed by the audience.

The artistic tone of the concert was somewhat marred by the constant moving of the piano. Some of the numbers were also of too great length and the program was too long drawn out.
Taken as a whole, however, it was a good concert and one worth going to hear.

COMING AND GOING
Mrs. Laura Wallace is visiting friends in Prairie du Chien.
Mrs. Louise Withee and Miss Rose Hamberson are contemplating a trip abroad. It is their plan to accompany Prof. Rasmussen to his home in Bergen, Norway, where they will be his guests for a while, after which they will spend some time in traveling through the country.

Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Withee left last night for Chicago.
Mrs. W. W. Cargill and Mrs. F. H.
Hanchette have gone to New York.
Mrs. L. F. Easton, Miss Anne Paul,
Miss Gertrude Hogan and Mrs. Munson Burton have gone to attend commencement exercises at Burnham.
Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Withee and son have gone to New York and Philadelphia.
British Army's First Trousers.
Perhaps the army revolution of deepest interest to the soldier himself was that effected in 1823, when for the first time he was put in trousers. The announcement from the horse guards took the following remarkable form:
"His majesty has been pleased to approve of the discontinuance of breeches, leggings and shags as part of the clothing of the infantry soldiers and of blue gray cloth trousers and half boots being substituted." In order to identify the "clothing colonels" for any hardship which the new order might cause it was decided that these gentlemen should no longer be called upon to provide the waistcoat of Tommy,
but that Tommy should himself supply
it out of his shilling a day. To reassure him it was pointed out that he was in a position to do so with comfort, because he would no longer have to buy gaiters.—London Chronicle.
The First Gas Tubes.
William Murdoch, a Scottish mining engineer employed in the Redruth mines, Cornwall, appears to have been the first to suggest that gas might be conveyed in tubes and used instead of lamps and candles. He made a very ingenious gas lantern for himself, with which he used to light his way over the Cornish moors at night. This lantern consisted of a bag filled with gas and fitted with a tube, at the end of which the gas could be lighted. Carrying the bag under his arm, Murdoch used to light his way home at night.
On meeting any one it is said that he would give the bag a squeeze and thus send out a long tongue of flame. This led to his being looked upon as the demon of the Cornish moors.—London Telegraph.
The Voice of the People.
Bob Toombs of Georgia was massive in frame and a giant in intellect. A back country paper criticised a bill he was putting through the legislature.
"This sheet," he roared, flourishing it aloft at a public meeting in Marietta,
"is about the size of a boy's shirt tail
and is called Vox Populi—the voice of the people! It has been established eight years and has a circulation of 100 weekly in a state with 1,000,000 population. Voice of the people! Why, it is the voice of one of the people,
and he is an insignificant ass!"

AMONG THE FUN MAKERS.

VACATION HINTS.

You may go to the country this summer for your two weeks or a month off. You have been thinking of dear old farmhouses, shady dells, babbling brooks and green meadows.

You are hungering and thirsting after fresh milk, the thickest of cream, fresh butter, "our own" vegetables and old-fashioned cooking.

You are thinking of harvest apples, shady orchards, roomy verandas, soft beds, lowing kine, wild strawberries and tramps through the green forest.

You are figuring on hot biscuit and honey, the slicest of bacon, ham and eggs, meaty potatoes, five kinds of preserves, green apple pies, delicious custards, veal cutlets and strawberry short-cakes.

You will be awakened by the songs of the meadow larks. You will see the dew sparkling on the grass as you get up. It will be life to breathe the pure morning air. You will have the appetite of a horse for breakfast—all of the above for six dollars per.

Dear friend, prepare. Prepare for bugs and 'skeeters and flies and hornets.

Prepare for corn-busk beds, soft butter, milk from town and eggs that dare not tell their age.

Prepare for sorghum in place of honey, and hot biscuit that will give you pains for a week. Your golden bacon will be salt codfish, and your ham and eggs will be fat pork swimming in gravy. Your meadow-larks will be all crows, and the sparkling dew will cost you 25 cents a spark.

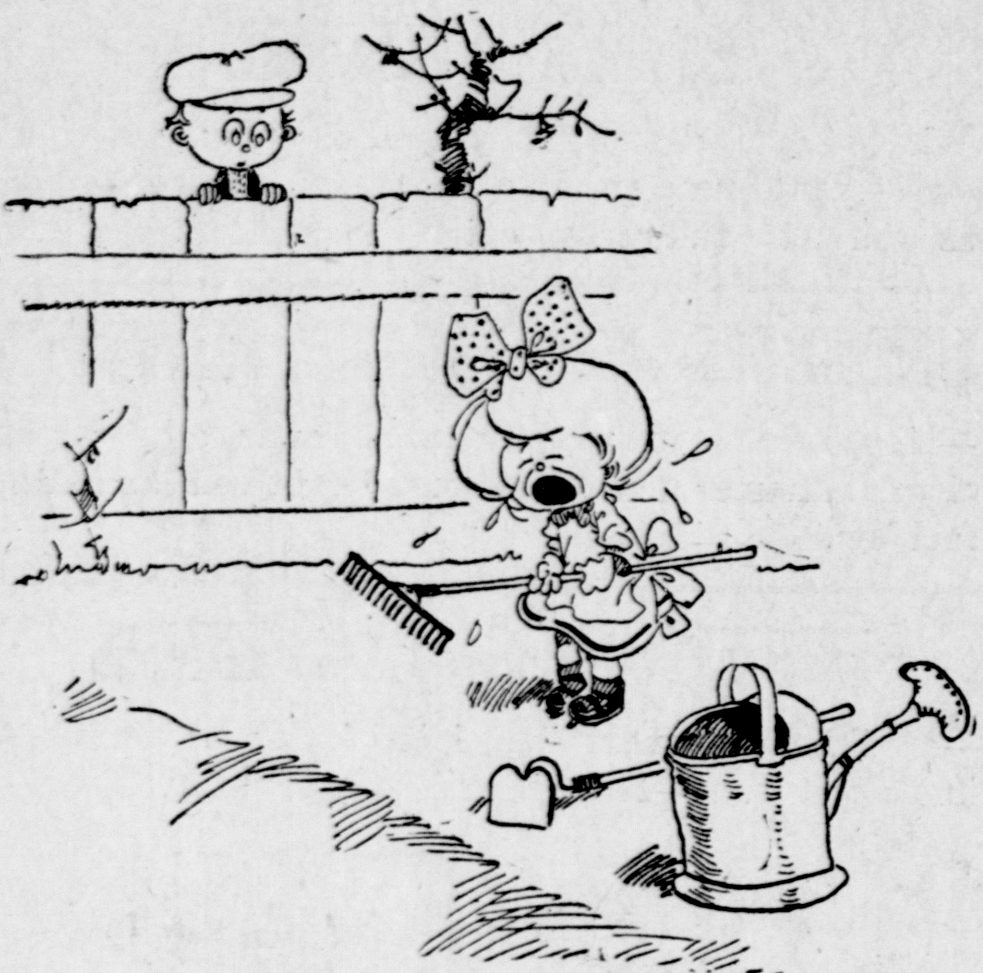

The harvest apples will be wormy, the potatoes watery, and the strawberry shortcake six miles away from the nearest strawberry. No greenwoods. No shady dells. Just the same old thing over again, and the price is eight dollars per and no kicking. There are other worlds than this, but they are a long ways off.

ALAS. "Mistress Mary, quite contrary, How does your garden grow? Sticks and stones and rags and bones And Jimson weeds in a row!"

AT THE JAMESTOWN HOTEL.

Guest—Your prices are outrageous. Why I can get better food and cooking in cheap restaurants.

Waiter—Yes, but those cheap kind of places don't take so much time to get your order ready.

Full leafed in pride of deepest green, The earth in the sunshine basks serene. Where linden blossoms crowded cling. A thousand bees are murmuring. As showers drift from the freshened land With seven-barred bow is the rain cloud spanned.

The wild rose yields her subtlest scents, Where haycocks pitch their fragrant tents The longest day's too brief for June, The night too short for such a moon!

No Protectorate.

"Your Excellency," said the Cuban calling at the White House to see the President, "but I am here in the name of thousands of Cubans to protest against what you call an American protectorate over my country."

"But it would certainly be of great benefit to Cuba," replied Mr. Roosevelt. "Ah, you say so. Your Excellency, because that is what you call the politics—the diplomacy—but you have not been over there. You have not met the Americans in Havana. Two months ago I met one who bows and smiles and says:

"Senor Diaz, do you the game of poker play?"

"I do not."

"Then I will gladly teach you for the benefit of my country."

"And he taught me, Your Excellency, and when I was taught he held four aces to my full-house and took from me 500 pesos. Again I meet an American in Havana. His interest in my Cuba was deep. He shakes hands with me and says:

"Senor Diaz, great is your island. All it needs is an American protectorate. I have a gold brick here to sell you cheap."

"I buy the gold brick, Your Excellency and it turns out to be brass. I have no revenge. The American is gone. Once more I meet a gentleman in Havana. He is from New York. He loves me and Cuba, and would see us grow great. He shakes my hand and says:

"Senor Diaz, I will now take three cards and throw them around this and so. You observe that I bend down a corner of the queen of hearts, but I wager $20 that you cannot pick her from the three."

"I know I can. I put up my pesos and feel sorry for that man. I pick—and it is not the queen! Caramba! If we have an American protectorate we have the green goods—the shell game—the string game—the dropped pocket-book—one thousand little American games to make fools of us and take our pesos. Caramba! We will not have it!"

HORSE TALK.

Fire Engine Horse—"Get out of my way, you old runt."

The Cart Horse—"You go to blazes."

AWFUL.

The Actor—"They've named a brand of cigars after me."

The Manager—"That's an honor."

The Actor—"You wouldn't look at it in that light if you tried to smoke one."

IN THE BARNYARD.

The City Boarder (watching the hen running about yard)—"Is that hen brooding over her troubles?"

The Farmer—"Naw. She's troubling over her brood."

AN EXPENSIVE OUTLOOK.

Daughter—I want all the money you can spare this summer, father.

Father—Dear me, my daughter, are you going to tour Europe?

Daughter—No, father; I'm going to graduate and get married.

HE EXPLAINED.

There were 14 male passengers on the street car and a fat man passed along the running-board and said to each one in succession:

"Don't think me officious please, but I'm taking a straw vote for the next presidency. State your preference, please."

All stated it but one. He was a journeyman tailor with a bundle of cloth on his knees, and he promptly refused.

"But it's only a straw vote, you know," urged the other.

"I know, but I couldn't do it."

"I don't see what you are afraid of."

"Perhaps not, but I don't propose to get into any trouble."

"I don't see how you can. Isn't this a free country?"

"Yes, sir, but I work for a boss."

"Well, I should vote for myself, and my boss might hear of it."

"But suppose he did?"

"Then I'd get the sack in two minutes. My boss means to be a candidate himself, and he wouldn't stand my being in opposition. Very sorry, sir, but I'll let the straw voting alone and hang to my job."

A DEAD FAILURE.

"Yes, Samuel has been down to the Exhibition at Jamestown and got back again," said the old Maryland lady when asked about her husband's visit.

"And was he disappointed?" was asked.

"He just come home a-sweating, and a more disappointed man I never saw. He has been home five days now, and he's had the nightmare every night. He's almost a mind to write to the papers about it."

"In what respects was he disappointed?"

"Well, the first day he looked all around for the elephants. Not one of the critters was to be found. When he finally asked a man where they were he was told they'd all died of the whooping-cough."

"Then he went looking for the lions and tigers. Not a critter of the sort there. Samuel wanted his money back, but they told him he was a squealer and didn't love his country."

"You know how fond Samuel is of hyenas. He just dotes on 'em. He spent one whole day looking for the hyena cage, and had some raw beef to feed 'em on, but not a critter of the kind there. One feller said the only hyena had died of the measles, but all the others just laughed and laughed. He didn't find a stuffed whale. There were no trick ponies and no clown. A bare-legged gal didn't jump through hoops of fire. There were no seals to bark, and no giraffes to stand on their hind legs and howl."

"The poor man! No wonder he came home disgusted."

"Not a bit of wonder. Lemonade was

He come home and kicked the gate off its hinges and tore down three rods of fence, but I didn't blame him one mite. Samuel is a man that would fight for his country as quick as anybody else, but when you leave the hyenas out on him he braces back like a mule and can't be moved."

EXPERT OPINION. Mrs. De Style—I wonder how long are bathing suits to be worn this summer? Mr. De Style—You can wear them all day if you don't go into the water.

THE WEEK'S FABLE.

Upon an occasion, as a man was making his way homeward after a hard day's work shearing lambs he saw a crowd on the corner and said to himself:

"I will halt and ascertain the reason of this congregation of people. Perhaps someone may drop words of good advice."

A long-haired man was holding forth.

by which I may profit."

He found a long-haired, benevolent-looking man holding forth to his fellow-men, and telling them that one of their missions on earth was to be kind and considerate to their fellow-men.

"It is surely so," mused the Lamb-shearer as he resumed his way. "I never thought of it before, but surely I now see that I should be willing to go out of my way to help my fellow-man along. Of course, I should."

And at midnight that night, which was as soon as he could get ready, he walked to the house of the benevolent man whom he had heard speaking and pounded on his door. A chamber window was raised and the benevolent demanded to know what in— (you know) was wanted.

"Sir, I come because of your words on the corner this evening," replied the shearer. "It is my duty to put you and all others of my fellow-men on to a good thing. The stock of the War-Whoop Silver Mine is now selling at five cents a share, with 1,000,000 tons of ore in sight. In the next 30 days the stock will be advanced to five and a half. Buy now before the rise and make your eternal fortune. You can pay one cent down and one cent a year until all is paid up."

Then the benevolent man hurried upstairs to the man on the steps, and he menaced him with hair brushes and water pitchers and rusty revolvers, and he was driven away in great haste and ignominy with tears in his eyes.

Moral—He who takes a man at his word takes risks.

WHEN GLADYS GOES A-FISHING.

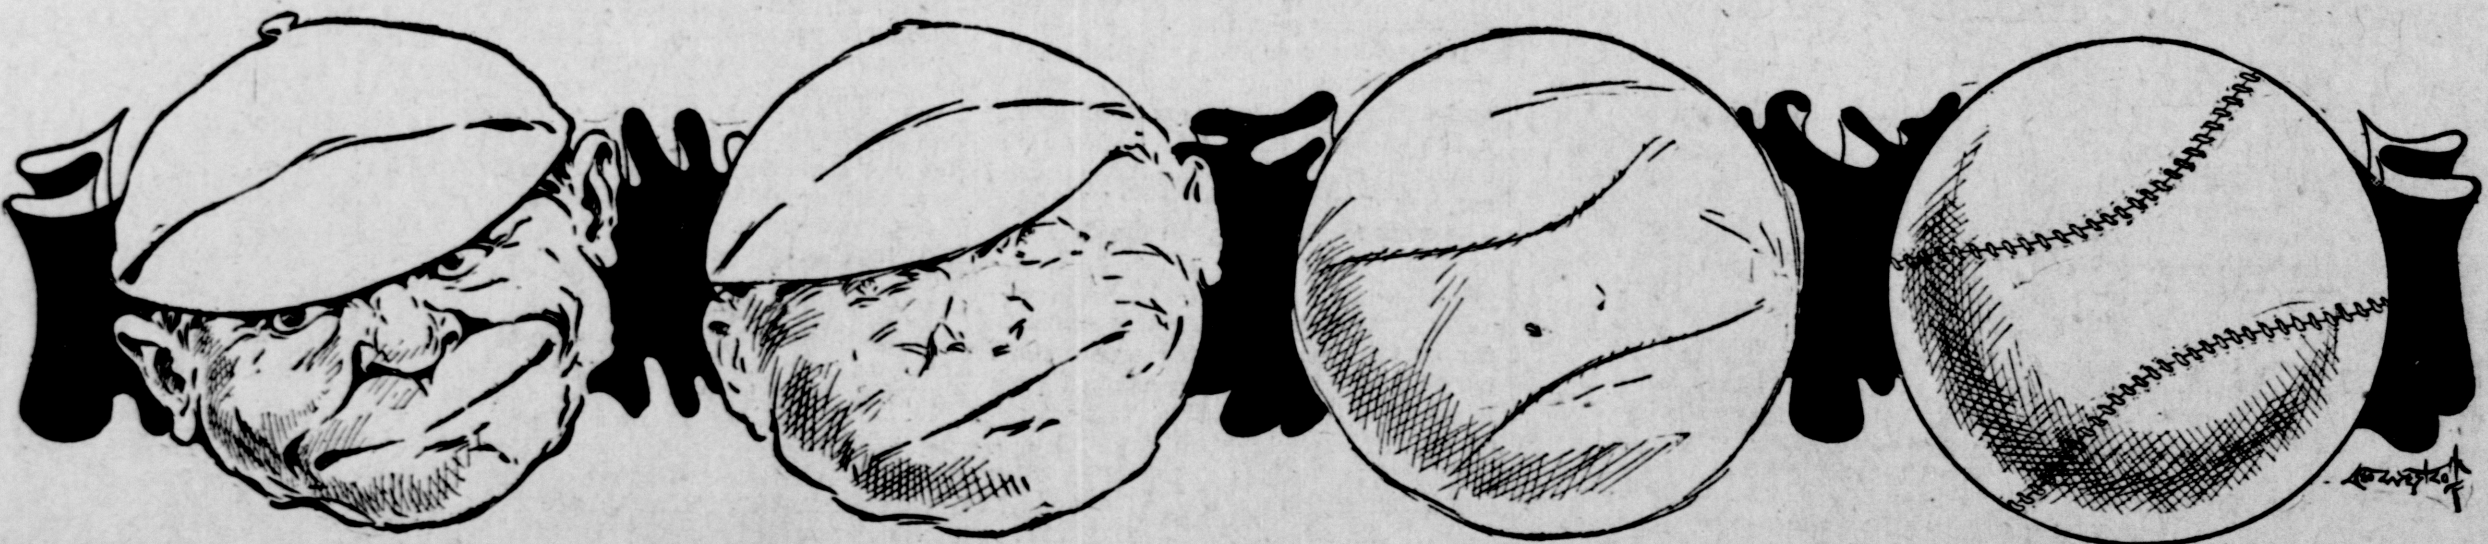

When Gladys goes a-fishing, All on a summer day, The birds from out their gladness Sing each a blither lay: The breezes in the willows A gentler murmur lend, Where, o'er the quiet reaches, The sun and shadow blend.

When Gladys goes a-fishing, Ah, happy then am I, To join her pole together And fix her gaudy fly. To set her reel a-singing And cast her line afar Where, in the silent shadows, The speckled troutlets are.

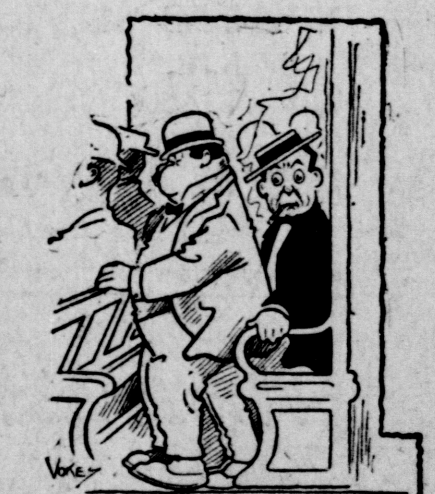

When Gladys goes a-fishing, We lunch beneath the trees On jam and cake and pickles And ginger beer and cheese, While ever, as we're feasting, With trills and chirps and hums An orchestra is playing, Which takes its pay in crumbs.

And while sweet Gladys watches Her line impatiently, My hook from out the water Brings fishes two or three. And when through fragrant twilight Our basket home we've brought, Sweet Gladys shows in triumph "The fishes that we caught!"

GRAIN AND FLOUR HIT THE BOTTOM KNOCKED OUT OF STIFF MARKET BY REPORT

FRUIT WILL BE PLENTIFUL SHARP ADVANCE QUICKLY LOST

Late Spring Has Merely Delayed, and Has Not Injured the Crops, Say Farmers

The last few days have been good for the crops in La Crosse county. They have improved wonderfully, but a drop in temperature has had a tendency to retard the growth that was becoming rapid. Small grain is looking healthy and strong but is a little backward. Corn is showing above the ground. Pastures are getting plentiful and the result is a heavy increase in the amount of milk received at the various creameries. Fruit trees are loaded with blossoms, and if there is no unfavorable weather there will be a large quantity of fruit raised this year.

With a report of favorable crops and approach of good weather the prices of grain have fallen, causing a drop in flour and feed. Flour went down 20 cents a barrel and feed dropped $2 per ton.

Eggs dropped half a cent on the wholesale market, the price being 12 1/2 at 14 cents.

Spinach has lowered to 20 cents a peck.

When a woman announces to her husband that she wants to have a "plain talk with him," it means that she wants him to confess.

Girls are at their most attractive age before they have discovered any reason for crowding the space before the mirror.

BREEZY STAGE TALK

"Noah's Ark," with Harry Bulger as the bo'sun, sailed into the Academy of Music in Baltimore recently. It is the first effort of Clare Kummer, a new author in that field. Bulger's songs, "Reincarnation" and "There's a Lot of Things That Noah Never Knew," caught the audience. Others in the cast were Sallie Fisher, Maida Snyder,

SALLIE FISHER IN "NOAH'S ARK."

Hattie Arnold, Stanley Forde, Edwin Wilson, William Murphy and Dan Williams.

Though introducing Noah, the ark, the animals, Noah's sons and their wives, the author has peopled the ark and Mount Ararat with a variety of other characters which add variety to the scene.

The revival of "His Excellency the Governor" at the Empire theater has given Ethel Barrymore a splendid opportunity to shine in her favorite light comedy sphere. The play was a public favorite years ago when produced at the old Lyceum theater, when Daniel Frohman was manager of its stock company, in which many famous stage folk appeared.

Miss Barrymore gave a very creditable performance of the leading role of Stella De Gex, the actress, in "His Excellency the Governor."

A distinct hit was scored by William Norris in the role of the secretary. In fact, he quite put Miss Barrymore in the shade when given a chance.

Miss Barrymore was very beautiful and showed her usual vivacity. John Barrymore seemed to imitate John Drew too much ever to be a good actor. Why doesn't young Barrymore imitate a real actor if he must copy some one? Johnny may be a big hit in the studios of the near artists, but he doesn't add much to a theatrical performance.

Raymond Hitchcock, who has been giving the Pacific coast a laugh with his unctuous comedy in "The Yankee Tourist," has been talking some more. This time Mr. Hitchcock has made pertinent remarks on the art of acting. He says:

"Before entering this profession I served as clerk in a shoe store, and in most respects I find that acting is akin to shoe selling in the matter of final responsibility."

"No matter who owns the shoe store or who made the shoes sold there, upon the clerk devolves the task of satisfying the customer that he is not being cheated. Regardless of who manages the theater or who wrote the play or who 'presents' it the actors must deliver the goods across the footlights in a way that pleases the audience, for the public don't care a rap who made the shoes or who retails them so long as it is convinced that they fit nicely and are durable. And the audience don't care a jot who made the play or who produces it so long as its production does not disappoint."

TELL OF THEIR EXPERIENCES

Larry Scherhardt Took the Prize in the Parade as Being the Only Real Successful Sailor

Wearied and footsore from the two days' stampee down at Waukesha, the La Crosse delegation of the Elks ambled into the city early this morning after being on the road all night. Leaving the place of the big "doings" at 6 o'clock last evening the bunch reached home about 7 o'clock this morning.

The proceedings of the trip home on the train are a secret, the bunch going into executive session to pull off their stunts. From the looks of the members this morning it could be learned without asking that no one slept.
